'Agreement' reached at Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — The Justice Department said today the government has "reached an agreement in principle" with militant Indians at Wounded Knee, but added that procedures still had to be worked out to end the 11-day occupation of the historic village.

The announcement was made in Washington, and there was no word at once from the Indians or officials of the Justice and Interior departments who have been negotiating the conflict at Wounded Knee.

The announcement in Washington said the agreement in principle with attorneys for the American Indian Movement "could settle current problems at Wounded Knee."

It added, however, that certain procedural matters pertaining to "the manner and time the nonresidents will depart Wounded Knee" had yet to be resolved.

There were no other details announced at once.

Some 200 Indians took over the hamlet Feb. 27. Federal lawmen have manned a perimeter around the village, and there have been periodic exchanges of gunfire. Two Indians were wounded Thursday night, the Justice Deartment said.

The Indians principal demand in the past few days has been removal of the Oglala Souix tribal leader. Federal officials have said in the past they would not meet the demand.

Also unresolved have been the questions of surrender of weapons and whether mass arrests would be made.

A short time before the Justice Department announcement, the lawyers for the Indians reentered the hamlet.

The stage for the renewed talks was set Thursday night when the Indians and government officials declared a ceasefire. It came shortly before the government's deadline for the Indians to leave the village took effect.

Before the Justice Department announcement, there had been reports that an agreement was in the works.

In Washington today, Sen. James Abourezk, a South Dakota Democrat who visited Wounded Knee last week, said he been told by friends and a staff member that an agreement had been reached and would probably be announced later in the day. He said he had no details.

There was no confirmation in Wounded Knee from Indians or officials of the Justice and Interior departments.

Federal authorities said there was no gunfire after midnight, but two Indians were injured in shooting just before the ceasefire took effect Thursday night.

South Dakota and Nebraska state troopers sealed off highways leading into Wounded Knee. Only residents of the area and representatives of news media were permitted past the roadblocks, set up as far as 30 miles from the village.

The Indians said they would not let the shooting jeopardize a possible peaceful settlement of the confrontation.

"We will use restraint rather than let this have a violent ending," said Dennis Banks, a Chippewa who was among the leaders in the takeover of Wounded Knee.

"Maybe the government has jeopardized its position with the shooting," Banks said, "but I still hope negotiations can continue."

The talks that resumed today were a continuation of negotiations broken off by the government Wednesday.

An intense exchange of gunfire occurred before the ceasefire was to go into effect. The cease-fire was announced first in Washington and was not known to all Indians when the shots were fired, a government spokesman said.

Jack Hushen, a Justice Department official, told newsmen Indians had initiated the shooting by firing on a government road-block. No comment was available from Indian spokesmen regarding which side had initiated the gunfire.

Hushen said the fire was returned by some of the estimated 300 federal marshals and FBI agents manning a perimeter around Wounded Knee, a hamlet on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

Hushen said federal authorities knew of one Indian who suffered a bullet wound in the hand and another who injured his leg. Newsmen inside the hamlet reported two Indians were shot, one in the hand and one in the leg. No identities were available.

Melton takes New Madrid school post

EAST PRAIRIE-- Ray Melton resigned as superintendent of the R- 2 School District Thursday morning and has accepted the position of superintendent of the New Madrid R- 1 Enlarged School District for a two- year term, effective July 1.

Melton, 48, has been superintendent of the R- 2 School District since 1964. He was high school principal from 1956 to 1964. From 1949 through 1956 he was a social studies teacher and coached basketball and baseball in grades seven through 12. He was an elementary teacher and coach at Anniston from 1946 until joining the East Prairie district in 1949.

A graduate of Anniston High School, Melton holds a Bachelor of Science in Education from the Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and a Master of Arts in Educational Administration from Murray State University in Murray, Ky. His professional association memberships include the East Prairie Community Teachers Association, Southeast Missouri State Teachers Association, Missouri State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Missouri and American Association of School Administrators, Parent Teachers Association, State and National School Boards Association, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development and Phi Delta Kappa.

Ray Melton

He has served as president, vice president and a member of the executive committee for the Southeast Missouri District Teachers Association.

Melton is married to the former Ellouise Garwood of Charleston. Mrs. Melton, a first grade teacher in the R.A. Doyle Elementary School, presently serves as chairman of East Prairie Community Betterment and is active in local civic organizations. They are members of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Melton will also be teaching in the New Madrid District next year.

"My wife and I have had a wonderful experience working in East Prairie for the past 24 years and we both hope we've made some contribution to the community," Melton said. "The position of superintendent of the New Madrid District is a professional opportunity I consider an honor and privilege to have received," he said.

Melton fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. George S. Reuter Jr., who declined to accept a one year contract offered by the school board.

Dr. Reuter has served as the first administrator for the district since March 1, 1970 following reorganization in 1968. The district includes schools in Matthews, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Parma and Portageville.

The position of superintendent of the East Prairie district is open and according to Melton applicants may contact Miss Marie Baker, board secretary at P.O. Box 100, East Prairie, Mo. 63845.

Audits standard procedure, Head Start director says

Audits of such programs as Delta Area Head Start are standard procedure for University of Missouri Extension, the new Head Start director, Ed Greenfield, said today.

He made the statement in response to published reports that a federal audit has been ordered for the Delta Area Head Start program.

"It is standard procedure for the University to conduct audits and program review when there is a change in administration of any extension program," the new director said.

"The Governor's Office and federal agencies involved in Head Start have asked for copies of the final audit, which we will gladly provide," Greenfield said.

He said only one audit will be conducted and that it would be administered by an independent auditing firm.

Greenfield said that federal agencies, such as the Office of Child Development, annually conduct a review of all Head Start programs.

Linda Carson, of the regional Office of Child Development in Kansas City, said that there are two audits now in process for the Head Start program in Portageville, and both are routine.

One is the annual audit which is required of all the agencies under their jurisdiction, she said. This audit is due in the office within six months following the end of the program year, which was Dec. 31, 1972 for Head Start. The annual audit must be done by an outside Certified Public Accountant firm, which the local agency chooses, she added.

A special internal audit is also being conducted by the University of Missouri auditors, she said. Mrs. Carson explained that this is just a good management procedure which is conducted when there is a management change.

Both the audits were in process or in the planning state before the governor ordered the federal audit of Head Start, she explained and none others are planned at present.

Greenfield, assumed the position as director of Head Start this week after his appointment was approved Feb. 20 by the Delta Area Head Start policy planning committee.

He succeeds Mike Cooper, who resigned Dec. 31 to take a new youth development position for University Extension in the Bootheel area. Glenn Patton, director of the University's six-county Bootheel extension area, served as acting Head Start director until Greenfield began work this week.

Motel owner arrested

Police Thursday arrested Art Garner, owner of the Rail Haven motel for allegedly displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon after he allegedly threatened to shoot a customer early Thursday morning.

Thomas Boyd of Chicago told police that Garner pointed a .22-caliber rifle at him and threatened to shoot when Boyd went to complain about a dog being in his room.

Boyd told police that he left his room about 1 a.m. Thursday and, when he returned at 3 a.m., he found a dog in the room. When he went to talk to Garner about it, he claims Garner pulled the rifle from under the counter and pointed it at him.

He claims Garner said he had shot a man before and he was going to shoot another. Boyd fled the motel and called police.

Garner, who is facing charges in the shooting of an Independence man on Feb. 9, was released on $2,000 bond.

Joseph O'Grosky, the man who was shot, was not seriously injured.

Police also announced the arrest of Allyn M. Stout Jr., 411 Fletcher, for not having a city sticker.

Sikeston woman critical; horses smashed her car

PERU, Ill. — Nadean Dickerson, manager of Delta Motel on Highway 61 North in Sikeston, Mo. is in critical condition in the intensive care ward of St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, following a freak accident early Wednesday morning.

According to Chester Oldham of 219 W. Gladys in Sikeston, he and his cousin, Mrs. Dickerson were traveling to Ottawa, Ill when they stopped about 3:15 a.m. about four miles south of Peru to get a breath of fresh air. While they were out of the car, they saw two flashing lights and got back into the car. An officer of the substation of the state police in Peru, Ill. said that the flashing lights were probably the lights at the intersection of Illinois 71 and U.S. 51, which is about one mile south of where the accident happened.

Oldham, driver of the car which belonged to Mrs. Dickerson, said he felt something bad was going to happen as he began driving down the highway. The state police said that he was northbound on U.S. 51 about 1.5 miles south of Ill. 71.

Suddenly a small herd of Palomino and Buckskin horses stampeded the car, head-on, and from both sides, Oldham said, demolishing the car. The accident report of the state police said there were about 12 horses.

The state police said the horses were being boarded by Lewis Gregorich of Rural Route Oblesby, Ill. The report said evidently the horses got out of the field and onto the roadway. The report named the horse owners as Don Garner of La Salle, Ill., Rick Vecchi of Oglesby, Ill. and Denis Green of Princeton, Ill.

Oldham and Mrs. Dickerson were taken to a hospital in Peru. Oldham received a whiplash and left shoulder injury. Mrs. Dickerson was transferred by helicopter to the Peoria hospital. She suffered serious face and head cuts, badly cut hand, and fractured skull and jaw.

Oldham said one of the horses was killed in the accident, and three others received broken legs and had to be killed.

Mrs. Dickerson is the sister of Pauline Harrison and Corrine Hufstedler of Sikeston.

James I. Spainhower

Spainhower cites interest earnings

Approximately 100 bankers, businessmen and county and city officials attended a dinner for State Treasurer James I. Spainhower Thursday night at Ramada Inn.

In a short speech, Spainhower said that when former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes left office in January, he left Missouri in good financial condition with a surplus of around $30 million.

He said Gov. Christopher (Kit) Bond inherited the office in good shape and has introduced a budget that would leave the state a balance of $20 to $30 million.

Since taking over the treasurers office, Spainhower said he has taken steps to get the fullest benefit from the state's money by closing one non- interest bearing bank account and transferring the money to a different bank where it will draw interest.

He also said he has cut the balance in the state's main checking accounts by keeping them lower than $3 million in cash revenue and placing the rest of the money in interest- bearing treasury bills.

Spainhower said a figure couldn't be placed on the amount of taxpayer money that had been gained by interest- bearing accounts because of the fluctuation of state funds. However, he believes that prudent investment of the funds can earn thousands of additional dollars with taxpayers' money.

He also estimated that $10 to $12 million in interest will be received by the end of 1973.

Spainhower said over 400 banks throughout Missouri handle state deposits in three types of bank accounts:

(1) demand checking account, handled by three banks located in Jefferson City, St. Louis and Kansas City with a daily balance of $20 million; (2) collection accounts, over 200 different banks throughout the state handle these accounts for payments in the areas where they are located; (3) time deposit accounts, the only accounts that draw interest and handled by over 300 banks.

He previously served as president of the Associated Medical Schools of Missouri, composed of the medical schools of St. Louis University and Washington University in St. Louis and the colleges of osteopathic medicine in Kirksville and Kansas City.

During the 1971- 72 school year, he was a part-time professor of political science at Lincoln University in Jefferson City.

An ordained minister of the Christian Church, he is a member of the denomination's Board of Higher Education and is chairman of the Division of Legislative Affairs of the Missouri Council of Churches.

From 1963 through 1970, Spainhower was the state representative in the Missouri Legislature from Saline County and served the last four years as chairman of the House Education Committee and as a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

In 1963, he was given the Meritorious Service Award by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. In 1970, the Saline County Young Democrats Club honored him with its Harry S. Truman award for outstanding civic and political work.

Other awards received by Spainhower include the 1967 Mental Health award from the Missouri Association for Mental Health and the 1968 Missouri Lay Educator Award by the Missouri Chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa. He formerly served as president of the board of the Woodhaven Learning Center for Retarded Children in Columbia.

From 1958 to 1964, Spainhower was minister of the First Christian Church in Marshall and, from 1964 to 1970, was minister of Christian Churches at Mendon and Bosworth.

His educational training includes a bachelor of arts degree for Phillips University in Enid, Okla., bachelor of divinity degree from a theological seminary at Lexington, Ky., and master of arts and Doctor of philosophy degrees in political science from University of Missouri—Columbia. In 1967, Phillips University conferred an honorary doctor of laws degree upon him.

PROUD TO BE AN AMERICAN

Not only is it a great thrill to see our POW's -- and some MIA's -- returning from the hell-holes of communist tyrants; it is even a greater thrill to see that in spite of all they have suffered in long, lonely years of imprisonment, our men never once lost faith in America. The most often repeated declaration of the returning POW's is: "God Bless America!" And what a contrast are their words, when compared to the snears and jeers of the hate - America crowd.

We can be proud of our men in uniform; and, by their example, we can be proud and grateful that we are privileged to be Americans.

BUSINESS MEN ON THE NIGHT SHIFT

Any business man worth his salt works long hours — extra hours; he has to, to keep his job — to keep his company's head above water in the rough sea of competition. And he works even longer, these days, to battle the extra competition from the low - labor - cost countries aboard.

But take a look at the names of Trustees and Directors and just plain volunteer workers of your local hospitals, colleges, charities — the same business men (and women) on longer hours. Because, without them and their skills these hospitals, school, charities would inevitably fail.

So, when anti- business politicians and power - seekers attack business, they are actually attacking the jobs these business men create and the extra- hour activities they manage and support.

Everything about a newspaper is consumer-oriented.

That's why both men and women consumers read newspapers more regularly and carefully than anything else.

That's because newspapers are the FULL information medium -- and can be read and re-read at the convenience of the consumers.

More information on consumer matters is being published in newspapers today than at any time in our nation's history.

Editorial writers, reporters, columnists and special feature pages and articles comment regularly on consumer issues.

Advertisements provide facts and information to help them shop better, save money, use time wisely, and live better year after year.

Classified advertising helps consumers in many important ways, assisting in such major events in an average person's lifetime as helping find a job, a home, and a car.

Our economy and standard of living are dependent in a great degree on good productive advertising, as carried by this and thousands of other newspapers.

Perhaps it is time to applaud the many good merchants and advertisers who have been helping consumers in this area live better year after year with their informative newspaper advertising.

NEW YORK (AP) — The phone rang one evening not long ago and a woman informed me that our daughter, Alison, had been accepted at the Bank Street School.

My wife, Stephanie, who was taking a bath when the phone rang, sprang from the tub, a broad grin sweeping across her face.

Our daughter, age 2, had made it. She had been accepted at nursery school. Her future was assured.

For those of you around the country who take getting into nursery school lightly, be forwarned. There are few nursery schools here and they are very fussy.

A good friend of my wife's tells of being on the delivery table. The obstetrician strikes her newborn son on the rear. Then smiling, the doctor turns to the groggy mother. He says:

"If you need to get him into nursery school, remember I'm on the board of directors of ... — the school shall remain nameless.

As Alison approached the age of 2, my wife more and more frequently brought up the subject of nursery schools.

Soon it became a major topic of conversation among friends who also had 2-year-olds since applications for admission to schools at age 3 had to be made about a year in advance.

Brochures began appearing around the house. "Montessori concept," "open classrooms," "structured but liberal," "unstructured but classical."

I took it all fairly lightly until one day when Stephanie, a television editor, attacked my seeming lack of enthusiasm.

She explained in rather loud and explosive terms how if Alison couldn't get get into nursery school our daughter's entire life might be ruined. She went on to relate how Alison might never be able to do such things like follow in her mother's footsteps at the University of Michigan ... and the Michigan Daily etc ...

As we—actually my wife—began mailing out applications, the conversations with our friends took on a note of panic.

Each application was accompanied by an application fee. The lowest was $15, the most $25. But the application fees assure nothing.

Well, somehow, Alison got in to a really good one. Now we just have to find a way to pay for it.

Luckily for us, for the first year she'll only be going four afternoons a week. That will cost us about $1,350 for the year plus another $250 for transportation.

A few nights ago I was looking over the Bank Street brochure and started figuring.

At present prices when Alison is 4 it will cost about $2,000 a year for five mornings a week. If she stays in the school for first grade figure about $2,500. That means it will cost about $20,000 by the time she's through the seventh grade.

I stared at the figures for a minute, then I looked up at my wife.

"To hell with the Michigan Daily," I said.

We're sorry Governor Bond did not name a lot of honorary colonels. Of course, this would have cost those colonels several hundred dollars for uniforms, an oil painting of Mrs. Bond, and other things the colonels are always called upon to do. However, the average person named to the Governor's staff likes to remember the honor, and if he could not afford the cost he could have declined the appointment. It is among our happy recollections that we served on the staffs of Phil Dannelly, Jim Blair and John Dalton. Handing in our closet is the dress uniform which cost quite a bit, but we wore it with pride when we marched in the inaugural parades.

Stay Out of Civil Wars

The Vietnam War apparently is ended for a time at least. Americans are grateful for that, while at the same time deeply regretting that we ever got into it, with all the resultant deaths and suffering by our men and our allies.

If we have learned nothing else from that conflict, it should be that we have no business throwing our military might into a civil war in any nation, especially one as far away as Southeast Asia.

The struggle in Vietnam was nothing more than a war between two sections of the nation about what ideology would prevail - communism that would dictate to both North and South Vietnamese, or the right of self-determination.

During our years there, we often thought about how our forefathers would have felt if during our own sectional struggle, the Civil War, some powerful nation like Great Britian, had taken sides and thrown a half million of its men into our country for either side.

It is certain that we would have felt it was none of their business and we would not have liked it.

SPACE SCIENCE HELPS
EARTHLINGS SUPPLY
UTILITIES

Two fuel cells from other space have come to earth in Brooklyn, where they are chemically transforming natural gas into electricity, quietly and efficiently.

The cells, recently installed as a test in a New York home, were developed jointly during the past five years by Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., and 33 natural gas companies as a part of a $50 million research program which stretches from coast to coast. One of the sponsoring companies is Brooklyn Union Gas, which is conducting tests in New York City. The fuel cells are modifications of the powerplants which provided electricity for the Apollo moon flights.

The natural gas fuel Cell, an on- site electric generator, consists of two units: one contains a reformer that breaks down natural gas into hydrogen and carbon molecules and converts the carbon into carbon dioxide and the other is the fuel cell itself, which generates electricity electrochemically when the gas mixture enters. The second unit converts the resulting direct current to alternating current.

Natural gas fuel cells could mean lower fuel costs since they convert 40 per cent of gas energy into power and operate one- third more efficiently than a typical central power station, according to Gordon C. Griswold, president of Brooklyn Union Gas.

During the latter half of 1971 and through 1972 up to 60 additional Powercells are scheduled for installation by various gas and pipeline companies at 37 locations in 19 states and the District of Columbia.

A TESTIMONIAL TO MULTIPLE USE

More than 25 years ago, a major timber company offered to trade some of its land in the state of Minnesota for other government- owned lands. The proposed exchange was opposed on the grounds that the timber company lands were undesirable for a recreation area. Now, after the company has conducted a multiple- use forest management for 20 years, including the harvesting of over 130,000 cords of pulpwood, the area is sought as the most desirable location in the entire state of Minnesota for the proposed new Voyageur National Park.

This bit of irony came to light during the testimony of a timber company official before a congressional subcommittee as to whether 51,000 acres of the company's timberlands are to be taken for the park. A company spokesman said, "The issue is not one of 'preservation versus destruction'...Instead it is one of 'preservation' compared to 'multiple- use management'...the latter offers much more in terms of protection, recreation opportunities and economic benefits at far less cost."

The official pointed out the importance of these timberlands to the region. They provide wood fiber requirements for mills at International Falls, Minnesota and in Canada. He added, "The International Falls mills support an annual payroll of nearly $20 million and full and part- time employment for up to 3,600 persons... "Government already owns and controls vast tracts of Minnesota forests. The timber company spokesman urged that a portion of the area already in government ownership be set aside as a national park. He stressed that his company favored a national park for Minnesota, but opposed the additional removal from private ownership of timberlands that have been dedicated for years to perpetual- yield forestry.

In this case, the argument for a national park to save irreplaceable scenic beauty fails to stand up. The scenic beauty was not apparent to the conservationists until after more than two decades of intensive forest management by a private company. It would be hard to find a stronger testimonial than this to the validity of the multiple- use principle.

FOLLOWING FALSE
STANDARDS

Beneath the murky waters of Latin American politics, there is an undercurrent of violent totalitarianism based on terrorism that bodes ill for any peace- loving country— including the United States. With the turmoil of Chile fresh in mind, it is revealing to read a piece entitled "Terror for Export" in the September 7, 1970 issue of Barron's, National Business and Financial Weekly. It shows how working from Cuba, the terrorists are spreading all through Latin America. And significantly, countries with welfare- state type governments have become the scenes of most active terrorism and repression.

In telling of the situation in Uruguay, for instance, Barron's quotes an authority who says, "Not much more than one third of the population is actively gainful, an exceptionally low percentage. And of those earning a living, about two fifths are directly or indirectly on the payrolls of the government and its affiliates. The number of pensioners is one third that of all wage earners, and the number of unemployed is not much below that of all pensioners...Uruguayan society has contrived for itself a womb- to- tomb welfare system which the nation (an economy based on beef and wool) cannot possibly afford."

Uruguay is now in the grip of paralyzing strikes, rampant inflation, as well as organized kidnapping and murder by communist- oriented terrorists. Liberals in the United States who blind themselves to oppressive union organizing tactics that undermine the most basic individual right of all-- the right to work-- and who pursue policies and measures of welfarism, without regard to the financial integrity of the nation, have but to look to the South-- to Latin America-- to perceive the false standards they are following to the detriment of our country.

A DESTRUCTIVE
CONCEPT

Many believe we have entered an era in which business and government must cooperate with each other to an unprecedented degree in solving current social and economic problems if the fabric of a self- governing society is to be preserved. Considerable evidence is visible of the strength of this belief among many business and government leaders. In education, expansion of equal employment opportunities, urban renewal, conservation and environmental problems, the cooperation of private citizens, and government has become of transcendental importance.

In one area, however, citizen- industry cooperation is having tough sledding. That area is in the field of consumer protection. Here, the extremists seem bent on creating an unbridgeable gap of hostility between consumers, government and industry. A prime example of their efforts is the proposed class action legislation under which consumers could band together and launch unrestricted legal actions against virtually any producer, manufcaturer or distributor in the country allegedly guilty of any one of a limitless range of fraudulent or deceptive practices. Damages could run into the millions, and litigation in each case would go on for years, penalizing both consumers and companies involved. Instead of working toward voluntary and reasonable solution of consumer- industry questions, class action laws would create a state of chronic warfare in the marketplace.

If this kind of legislation is permitted to undermine mutual trust and confidence between private citizens and government in the area of consumer protection, how long before the process will wreak havoc in other areas such as environment, conservation, city rebuilding and so on? Where cooperative citizen-government action is essential, the destructive impact of the philosophy behind the class action legislation would be so great as to be incalculable. To protect the consumer, we already have laws against fraud and misrepresentation.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE?

In the new term of Congress just begun, both Democrats and Republicans are expected to offer legislative proposals for massive government- supported medical care. Many citizens might be tempted to support such programs, but in the long run they would do much more harm than good.

Doctor and hospital bills have risen rapidly in recent years, primarily because of government Medicare and Medicaid programs, which virtually guarantee payment. In the past many doctors and hospitals would base their fees on ability to pay, with the poorest people receiving free care. Now medical bills are high for everyone. Some Medicare patients find their medical bills almost twice as high as in the past, with the government paying half and the patient paying the rest.

In the words of Dr. Sidney Garfield, founder of the Kaiser-Permanent prepaid group medical plan: "Picture what would happen to air transportation if fares were eliminated and travel became a right. What chance would you have of getting anyplace if you really needed to?...The change from fee to free would disrupt any system, no matter how well organized, and this is particularly true of medicine, with its highly personalized sick- care service."

The normally statist Brookings Institution put it this way: "Financing [free medical care for most citizens] would require large tax increases that would be devoted not toward accomplishing objectives attainable only in the public sector, but toward substituting public outlays for private outlays that would have been undertaken in any event." Socialized medicine would create far more problems that it would solve. HLH

$Billion Overpayment:
New National Welfare Roll Sampling Reveals Heavy Illegal Outflow of Money

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- It may be reverse elitism to decry those who shuttle between the intellectual centers of Harvard, Oxford and Swiss cultural centers-- and who are the first to cry out against "welfare cuts."

But those theorists who shout down efforts to end the fraud and violence and terror by marauding bands in what now have become permanent welfare neighborhoods are ivory- towerists. They are divorced from realism. They have not been into the big cities' new flatlands where rot has leveled buildings for so many streets it all seems like 1946 Berlin.

There is money to rebuild these inner precincts. There is almost a billion dollars, it has just been discovered, actually spent annually by the federal government, the states and municipalities in welfare overpayments. Or to ineligibles.

This has been discovered by new sophisticated quality control systems, HEW Secretary Caspar (Cap) Weinberger tells me. One of his technical colleagues calls it the first good feedback from states in years. He refers to the huge figure of overpayments and illegal payments as the 1974- fiscal year projection--- a "national subsample."

The actual cost to the federal government from this sheer waste and stolen moneys comes to $456 million in the fiscal year starting this July 1.

The government HEW Social and Rehabilitation Service pays half the welfare cost. Thus the total annual outpouring---when added to what the state and local units pay--- comes to $912 million.

Half the "error" is made by case workers. Half by "misrepresentation," mostly by parents in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) category. There are some 3 million such families on the rolls.

These huge funds which could provide the schools, the low- rent housing projects, the child care centers, the family rehabilitation, the lifting of Dostoyevskian families from the muck— which must be seen to be believed--- don't include actual fraud.

The near- billion dollars don't relate to the "lost check" schemes, the raiding of welfare centers, sometimes at knife and gun point, in search of "emergency" payments, or the looting of Medicaide funds by physicians, dentists, pharmacists and other "venders."

Positively there is no reflection here on aid to the needy, the infirm, the aging, the handicapped or the truly desperate families— three quarters of which are children. There is no reflection here on the honest, sleepless, selfless doctors who work the slums. But there is a cry here for realism. End the rackets which steal from the poor.

Cap Weinberger, one of the White House's super Cabinet men charged with protecting human resources, has told me he has discovered fantastic overpayments "which vary...20 per cent is considered the national illegal payment rate. No one disagrees. Thus the figures are enormous."

Weinberger says that in some states the overpayments run to 30 per cent. One of his colleagues talked of a 42 per cent rate of overpayments to AFCD families in one three-month period sampled in California. There they use computers in an "Earnings Clearing System." This is a double- check technique, matching reports from an employed welfare (AFDC) recipient with unemployment compensation records filed by the welfare client's employer. There was an overcost of $1.8 million in the 90 days.

The national subsample obtained by HEW's new quality control system supports the 20 per cent overpayment report.

This feedback discloses "there is some degree of error in about 25 per cent of the cases across the country"--- and there are 15.1 million persons on welfare.

To zero in on the wastage: there is a 13 per cent rate of overpayments and a 6.8 per cent rate of ineligibles in the AFDC category.

"We are now developing changes in regulations," said Weinberger when we talked the other day. "We have put them out to the states and cities to get comments. We are trying to develop quality figures so states can move in more rapidly on the errors or fraud, call it what you wish--- means to avoid overpayments and payments to ineligibles. "We are now developing changes in regulations," said Weinberger when we talked the other day. "We have put them out to the states and cities to get comments. We are trying to develop quality figures so states can move in more rapidly on the errors or fraud, call it what you wish--- means to avoid overpayments and payments to ineligibles.

"We are moving in the direction of a flat grant instead of a test which demeans the welfare client-- the questioning on family budget, do you really need a telephone, or what about that extra medicine or transportation? Flat grants will prevent demeaning the client. And it would cut into the heavy administration cost."

This, adds Weinberger, is an attempt to set priorities so the most urgently desperate and needy get what is justly theirs. And what they need and what is stolen from them truly cannot be learned even by those of the ivy halls of Cambridge or Oxford— even on those long jet flights.

Corruption Crackdown in Chicago:
A Tale of Presidential Vengeance
By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--- President Nixon personally ordered the federal crackdown on corruption in Chicago as an act of political vengeance.

After he lost the close 1960 election, Republicans brought him enough evidence of vote fraud in Chicago to convince him that he could have edged out John F. Kennedy for Illinois' crucial electoral votes.

They urged him to challenge the election, which would have tied it up in a nasty court battle. Nixon refused, saying he would not be a party to a constitutional crisis. But he never forgot that Mayor Richard Daley's political machine had helped deny him the presidency in 1960.

When he finally reached the White House eight years later, he let the Justice Department know that he wanted to clean up Chicago. A high- powered strike force and a squad of Washington- based tax agents were dispatched to Chicago to put the Daley machine under a federal microscope.

Their work has already brought one celebrated conviction. Federal Judge Otto Kerner, formerly governor of Illinois and a kingpin in the Daley machine, was found guilty on 17 counts of conspiracy, fraud, bribery and income tax evasion.

The President got the news while he was flying aboard Air Force One. He was so elated that he directed presidential aide John Ehrlichman to phone his congratulations to prosecutor James Thompson.

Footnote: The aggressive Thompson, as district attorney for northern Illinois, has some other Daley cronies on the ropes. Edward Barrett, the Cook County clerk, is on trial for bribery, income tax evasion and mail fraud. An investigation into the Cook County Assessor's office is expected to lead to still more indictments. Mayor Daley, himself, is likely to escape criminal charges. But he has been embarrassed by disclosures that his sons have been receiving city insurance and legal business.

Black September
Story

The Central Intelligence Agency has put together some fascinating facts about the Black September terrorists, which may explain why they stormed into the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum to commit their latest atrocity.

Apparently, the terrorists hoped to shock the world and embarrass the Saudis in the process by taking over their embassy and executing three of their distinguished guests, including U.S. Ambassador Cleo Noel, Jr. Here is the background from secret CIA reports, which have been shown to us:

The Black September movement, named for the month of September, 1970, when King Hussein started his successful drive to crush the Palestinians in Jordan, began as the terrorist arm of al- Fatah. This is the largest of the Palestinian fedayeen, or guerrilla, groups.

A few hundred hardened, embittered fedayeen were recruited whose main mission was to "get" King Hussein. Originally, claims a secret CIA report, "Fatah's assassination plans (were) aimed solely at Jordanian ministers, Army officers and members of the Royal Hashemite family. It (was) planned to execute these individuals wherever they may be found abroad, in Arab countries, Europe or America."

The Black September terrorists struck first at Wafsi Tell, the late Jordanian premier, who was gunned down in Cairo in November 1971. This happened at a time when Saudi Arabia's King Faisal was trying to negotiate an accord between Jordan and al- Fatah. The king was worried, according to a secret report, "about the complete takeover of fedayeen leadership by radical extremists." He saw this as the "tragic inevitable outcome if Jordan continued to exclude the fedayeen wholly from any separate existence."

King Hussein, however, had intelligence reports of al-Fatah's involvement in the Black September attack upon Wafsi Tell. These reports "indicated the King and his family were equally targets of Fatah assassin plans."

He asked King Faisal to send a representative to Jordan "to be informed in detail of the evidence of Fatah's involvement." Faisal countered by inviting Hussein to send a representative to Saudi Arabia. Jordanian Ambassador Shanquiti was immediately dispatched to Riyadh to present the evidence to Faisal.

The fedayeen, meanwhile, had been filling Faisal with stories of Jordanian brutality against al- Fatah. They charged, for instance, that the moderate al- Fatah leader al-Abu Ayyad "had been cruelly beaten and then killed. The stick which he usually carried was now a trophy in Hussein's palace."

For a time, King Faisal didn't know whom to believe, but he increasingly became convinced that al- Fatah had been taken over by radicals. In the end, Faisal wound up in Hussein's corner. This is the reason, according to the CIA, that the Black September terrorists have now turned against the Saudis.

Teacher, students hear scientist

W. W. Wilkison, a Sikeston High School teacher, and six students who excel in science were among 150 outstanding science students and teachers from throughout Southeast Missouri who heard Bell Telephone Laboratories scientist Dr. Tom Sheahen discuss the responsibilities of science Thursday at the Ramada Inn.

Dr. Sheahen, a member of the interconnection technology laboratory at Bell Labs, of New Jersy, made the presentation by videotape. He is an expert in data analysis from space exploration.

In addition to hearing Dr. Sheahen, visiting students and teachers placed calls over the first working Picturephones ever to be installed in Southeast Missouri. Picturephones transmitted the caller's image as well as voice similar to the reception of a television picture.

The meeting was Southwestern Bell's first Science Recognition Day to be held in Southeast Missouri. The Day commemorated the March birthday of Alexander Graham Bell. The meeting began at 9 a.m. with Dr. Sheahen's videotaped presentation beginning at 9:45 a.m.

Southeast Missouri schools participating in the day-long event were: Sikeston High, Cape Girardeau High School, Notre Dame Regional High, College High and Vocational Technical School, Leopold, Patton, Poplar Bluff, Delta, Jackson, Oak Ridge, Cardwell, Campbell, Malden, Clarkton, Charleston, East Prairie, Parma, Caruthersville, Deering, Wardell, Benton, Chaffee, Oran, Sikeston, Advance, Bell City, Dexter, Bismarck, Farmington and Leadwood.

As a Bell Labs scientsit, Dr. Sheahen has been involved in a series of experiments on board space vehicles to study the upper atmosphere. He is presently working on new telephone switching systems.

Dr. Sheahen is a member of the American Phyisical Society and holds a Doctor's degree in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Other features of the science seminar were: A computer time sharing demonstration; A laser-holography demonsration (holograms are three-dimensional photographs taken by laser light); and a film commemorating the 25th Anniversary of the invention of the transistor by Bell Labs.

Southwestern Bell sponsored Science Recognition Day to encourage students to continue their education beyond high school and to stimulate their interests in engineering and the sciences.

Man hurt

Dewey Phillips, 51, Sikeston, was injured yesterday afternoon while working at Scott County Milling Company. Apparently Phillips was loading or unloading a boxcar at the company and fell, fracturing his arm and causing a possible fractured pelvis.

He is listed in fair condition at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

BALTIMORE OPERA AUDITIONS YOUNG

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Opera Company is holding auditions for young singers, 20 to 32, with prize award auditions to be held May 17.

Five awards, from $1,500 to $500, will be given and winners are to use the money to further voice training, learn operatic roles, develop dramatic ability and/or perfect foreign languages. The money must be used within the United States.

More pressure to release U.S. POWs

SAIGON (AP) — The United States put more implied pressure on the Communists today to release another 140 or so American prisoners of war by next Tuesday.

Brig. Gen. John A. Wickham Jr., deputy U.S. representative on the Vietnamese-American Joint Military Commission, told the commission that nearly 74 per cent of the American and allied foreign forces in Vietnam at the time of the cease-fire Jan. 28 have been withdrawn in compliance with the peace agreement.

Wickham said the United States has pulled 15,747 troops, South Korea and other foreign allies have removed 27,490, and a total of 15,795, including 7,769 Americans, remain to be withdrawn by March 28.

A U.S. spokesman said Wckham presented the figures as a "matter of record" and did not draw any conclusion. But the spokesman added that the United States "seeks to realiee the release of American prisoners of war as quickly as we reach different phase lines."

The cease-fire agreement stipulates that American prisoners will be released at the same rate that U.S. and other foreign allied troops are withdrawn from Vietnam. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have released a little more than half of the 585 American prisoners they held at the start of the cease-fire.

The South Vietnamese released another 997 Communist prisoners of war today in Quang Tri Province below the demilitarized zone.

A sokesman for the Saigon command said three of the North Vietnamese refused repatriation and were granted asylum in the south.

The South Vietnamese government sent a protest letter to the International Commission of Control and Supervision charging that Communist forces intensified attacks in violation of the cease-fire during the past two days.

The Saigon command reported 124 more violations during the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, with 135 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and 50 South Vietnamese killed, 339 South Vietnamese wounded and 21 missing.

8 treated

Eight accident patients were treated Thursday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Gloria Mayfield, 5, Sikeston, fractured left arm in car door; David Shell, 14, Sikeston, bruised and sprained left knee at school; Eric Pierce, 20, Charleston, injured at work; and Dewey Phillips, 51, Sikeston, fractured pelvis at work.

What's the law?

The case of the romantic pursuit

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alvin made his job as a bill collector more of a "pursuit" than an occupation. Amorously inclined, he cornered adorable Dora in her apartment and offered to forget about the money she owed in exchange for a romantic interlude. Dora, however, wasn't that kind of a girl and flatly turned down the offer. Whereupon, agile Alvin began to pursue the screaming girl around the apartment with outstretched but unfulfilled arms. The chase ended, however, after only a few minutes when Dora tripped and fell. Badly hurt, she sued Alvin's employer for her injuries.

"A bill collector is supposed to collect money," she told the judge, "and not kisses. As Alvin's employer, he should be held responsible for his employee's conduct."

"Why?" responded the employer. "I didn't hire Alvin to be a delinquent with delinquent customers. When he started chasing Dora, he wasn't working for me. He was on his own."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the employer responsible for Alvin's romantic pursuit?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while an employer can be held liable for the actions of an employee when performed during the course of his employment, or for the employer's benefit, Alvin's pursuit of Dora was definitely not within the scope of his employment, nor was it for the benefit of his employer. Consequently, concluded the judge, his employer could not be held responsible for his amorous overtures.

KASU receives grant

JONESBORO— KASU, the non- commercial, educational public radio station licensed to Arkansas State University, has been awarded a $68,696 federal grant for expansion, Charles Rasberry, director of broadcasting at Arkansas State, has announced.

The expansion will include relocating the tower and transmitter, increasing the tower height and installing a larger antenna and transmitter, resulting in an increase of KASU's radiated power from 4,500 watts to 10,000 watts.

Rasberry said the federal grant will result in KASU reaching into Southern Missouri and western Tennessee as well as eastern and north central Arkansas. "Upon completion of the project, we will increase our broadcast day from 15 hours to 18 hours a day, year round, and will commence broadcasting in stereo.

Rasberry said the station will also add expanded programming aimed at the agricultural interests of the area, in cooperation with the College of Agriculture.

KASU broadcasts cultural educational and informational programming as well as programs of music, news and sports. The expansion project will cost a total of $91,595 and the grant will cover 75 per cent of the total cost.

Grassfires reported

Firemen were called to two grassfires Thursday, both caused by burning trash.

They were called at 12:16 p.m. to the Theodore Williams property at 335 Compress Road and at 2:38 p.m. to the Kenneth Scheeter property at 410 Carroll.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim release to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord. (Luke 4:18-19, RSV) PRAYER: God, help me to share myself with those oppressed so that together we may find the key that unlocks their chains and sets them free to live as You would have them live. Amen.

400 view fashions

Approximately 400 persons attended the eighth annual Coalesce Club fashion show- card party Monday night at Ramada Inn. The theme of the show was "Spring Into Spring". The clothes modeled consisted of everything from sportswear and swimwear to evening wear and capes. Club members sold tickets to latecomers for standing room only. The models paraded down three walks so that all could see the garments.

Mrs. William Crowell, 112 Autumn Drive, was the winner of a dinner for eight to be cooked by Cherie Blanton, using recipes from her cookbook, "A Little Fur In the Meringue Never Really Hurt the Filling."

Proceeds from the show will go to various charitable organizations of Sikeston.

Craft fair set in Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The third regional craft fair exhibit, sponsored by The Christian Arts Council of Cape Girardeau, will be held at the Arena Building April 14 from 1 to 9 p.m. and Apr. 15 from 1 to 6 p.m.

Area craftsmen are invited to participate and demonstrate- exhibit their work. There will be no entry fee.

Pre-registration is required by April 1. Mail entry blanks to: The Christian Arts Council, P. O. Box 606, Cape Girardeau, Mo.63701. Registration blanks may be obtained at public and private schools, libraries, banks and savings institutions in Cape Girardeau and Jackson and at special places designated in cities throughout the 17-county area served by The Christian Arts Council.

Questions maybe referred to Caroll Snead, General Chairman, 1435 Rose, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701. Dr. Dan Cotner is chairman of demonstrations and Otto Dingeldein is president of the council.

The purpose of the Craft Fair Exhibit is to promote and assist area craftsmen and to generate an interest in other persons to develop a craft and discover the joy of creating something beatuiful from raw material.

Last year over 220 craftsmen took part in the event which was attended by over 5,000 persons. The 1973 exhibit is expected to attract even more persons, and the Council reports early registry of several new and unique crafts. Inquiries are being made by buyers who are contemplating placing orders for craft work.

The craft fair is open to craftsmen in Southeast Missouri, Southern Illinois and adjoining counties in other states. Group exhibits by craftsmen working jointly in a craft such as a school or club are encouraged.

Exhibits must be in place by 11 a.m. April 14 and remain intact until the show closes Sunday at 6 p.m. Orders may be taken during the show and sales made after the fair closes.

Annual Show Set

CHARLESTON— The Junior Study Club will present its 25th annual spring show March 15 and 16. "The Pleasure of Your Company" is this year's offering, featuring favorite numbers from previous shows and new numbers added for spice.

All proceeds from the show go toward maintenance of the Scout Cabin in Rolwing Park.

Tickets may be obtained from any club member in advance. Some tickets will be available at the door. Reserved seats are also available. For further ticket information, phone Mrs. William Brewer at 683- 6333.

WE FORGET OFTENEST TO CHECK BATTERY

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A national survey of car owners shows that the preventive maintenance service they most often overlook is a check of their battery's cables and post connections, says W.E. MacDonald, technical services manager for Marathon Oil Co. Thus neglect, he says, is responsible for a large share of winter starting problems.

Ann Landers

Firemen's infidelity rate 80 per cent?

Dear Ann Landers: You stated in a recent column that your mission is to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable. May I help?

Attention, Working Wives: Does your husband work a different shift? If so, you could be in for some trouble. Take firemen, for example. They often do 24 hours of duty, and then they are off for 48 hours. If their wives work, these men have a great deal of time alone. They are not likely to busy themselves about the house. They frequently seek other entertainment--- often women. The infidelity rate among firemen runs about 80 per cent.

Don't say, "Not my husband. He's not the type." You never know what type he is until it's too late.

My advice: Stay home with your fireman- husband. Turn off the TV. Neck for a few hours, like you did when you were dating. It can bring back memories and be great fun.

Have I made someone uncomfortable? Good! I meant to.--- Midwest Authority

Dear Authority: I don't know where you got that 80 per cent unfaithful figure among firemen. I doubt that their infidelity rate is any higher than that of doctors, lawyers, paperhangers or siding salesmen.

As for necking for a few hours-- well, if you want to, why not? But if my memory serves me, necking was a holding action for unmarried couples who didn't believe in going all the way. Or am I dating myself?

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young mother 22 years of age and have been married twice and given birth to two children. My first child is a healthy four- year- old. My second child died several months after birth.

When people ask me if I have children I always say, "Yes." Then they want to know how many and their ages. This question makes me uncomfortable because I am forced to talk about something I would rather not go into.

If I answer "I have only one child," I feel I am being disrespectful to the baby I lost.

Please tell me how to handle this problem.--- Depressed In Nashville

Dear D.:: The best way to sidestep a topic that depresses you and at the same time avoid the guilt that might result if you don't mention the baby you lost is this: When asked how many children you have, simply say, "I have a four-year- old. Our second baby died several years ago."

Dear Ann Landers: Me--- writing to you. What a laugh. But since you don't know me or the young lady, you're a perfect choice.

The problem is complicated. Feelings are involved. Why would a beautifully groomed, attractive young woman walk around with a dirty neck? I keep wondering if anyone else notices it. I don't see how they could miss. I think she realizes it and attempts to cover it up by wearing a lot of junky chains and other heavy jewelry.

If you are going to suggest that I come right out and tell her (the typical Ann Landers approach) can you supply me with the proper words; I can't just say, "Honey, your neck is dirty." Thanks, Annie.--- Tongue- Tied In Tahoe

Dear T.T.: Untie your tongue in Tahoe and try this: "Honey, I'll bet you don't know that your jewelry is discoloring your neck. Let me buy you some jewelry cleaner and we'll check your neck in a day or two and I'll bet there's a whale of a difference."

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Diabetics need understanding

SAN FRANCISCO — "When a patient learns that he has diabetes, a reactive depression of variable degree is almost inevitable," Dr. Maurice Martin of Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., reported at a medical symposium on diabetes.

Many patients find it hard to believe or accept the diagnosis, the physician said. Some refuse to accept the fact that they must alter their life style.

In a discussion of depression and diabetes at the symposium, as reported in "Diabetology '72", published by Geigy Pharmaceuticals for physicians, Dr. Martin called for understanding and counseling of patient by the physician and, if the patient is a youngster, of the parents as well. Parents often have guilt feelings when they learn their child is diabetic and that the disease is hereditary, he explained.

It is estimated that one of every 50 persons in the United States is afflicted by diabetes. One out of every 100 is diagnosed.

High blood pressure must be controlled

HOUSTON, Tex. — The need for early detection of men and women with high blood pressure and for them "clearly to understand the importance of controlling their condition," was stressed Feb. 8-9 at a medical symposium on hypertension.

High blood pressure can be successfully lowered with modern drugs and strokes and heart attacks prevented, according to Dr. Morton H. Maxwell, clinical professor of medicine at University of California in Los Angeles.

Patients should receive drug treatment if they give evidence of persistently elevated blood pressure readings or have a family history of hypertensive cardiovascular disease, another participant on the program, Dr. Edward D. Freis said.

Dr. Freis, senior medical investigator, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Washington, D. C., recommended that indications for treatment should be stricter for men than for women because of the more rapid progression of cardiovascular damage in men. (Statistics, however, show that more women than men are diagnosed as being hypertensive.)

A relatively simple and inexpensive work-up can help the physician to determine whether a hypertensive patient should have therapy without delay.

Dr. Walter M. Kirkendall, director of the program in internal medicine, University of Texas Medical School, made this point and explained that a group of symptoms and signs in the patient's history, physical examination and laboratory tests give the physician the information he needs to evaluate the patient.

The symposium was sponsored by the Medical School and Division of Continuing Education of the University of Texas Science Center at Houston and was co-sponsored by CIBA Pharmaceutical Company.

Attendance drive planned

MINER — The Miner Baptist Church will have a Sunday School attendance campaign March 24- April 15.

The program will be titled: "Magnify the Cross of Christ," and will strive to reach an overall goal of 250 in Sunday School by Easter Sunday, April 22.

Each Sunday, as the goals are reached in attendance, a large cross will be erected and hopefully completed on April 15 with over 200 in attendance.

Sign- up for the program will begin this Sunday and continue through March 18 in an effort to have over 200 signed up, saying that "unless I'm providentially hindered, I'll be present in Sunday School, March 24- April 15."

Dogwood church plans revival

DOGWOOD — A week of revival services has been set for the Dogwood United Methodist Church, beginning Sunday for both services.

The services will continue each evening at 7:30 until closing on Friday night.

The Rev. Floyd V. Brower, pastor, will deliver the messages. Congregational singing and special numbers will be featured.

Weekend meetings planned

EAST PRAIRIE — First Church of God will have special services tonight through Sunday.

Services tonight and Saturday will begin at 7 p.m. and Sunday night at 6.

The Joy Bells from Limestone, Tenn., will sing Saturday night and Sunday morning with the youth in charge of all singing under the direction of Foster Brock, the church's new minister of youth.

St. Joe to mark 100 years

IDALIA— St. Joe General Baptist Church near Idalia has announced plans for a centennial celebration to be held in July.

Information concerning the founding of the church is being compiled now, a church spokesman said, and the committee needs information and pictures of several charter members and former pastors.

The charter members the committee needs histories of include G.W. and Martha Reed, G.W. and Anna Patterson, B. Longworth, John Culberson, William Boone, W.J. McIntosh, Mary McIntosh, Jane Abner, William Taturn, Samuel Wiley, Martha Wiley, Marth Gipson and the church organizer, Joseph Weather.

The former pastors whose biographies are needed include W.A. Ward, D.A. Ford, M.E. Bunnells, G.W. Johnson, John Terry and D.D. Damison.

Anyone who can help the committee to complete its compilation of the church history is asked to send the information or contact Ruth E. Davis, Route Three, Bloomfield.

Mrs. Davis stressed that any pictures used for the history would be handled carefully and returned to the proper owners unharmed.

Dr. Ehly to be guest speaker

Dr. Paul E. Ehly of St. Louis will speak Sunday at First Christian Church (Disciples) 1006 N. Main St., at the 10:30 a.m. worship service, according to the Rev. Paul D. Walker, pastor.

Dr. Ehly and Charles B. Barr, district minister for Christian Churches, form the team for the sixth annual Outreach Visitation sponsored by the Christian Church in District 10.

Dr. Ehly is area director of development for the National Benevolent Association of the Christian Church, a position he has held since 1966. The NBA operates homes for children and the aging throughout the United States and serves as the Division of Social and Health Services of the Christian Church Disciples of Christ.

Before coming to his present position, Dr. Ehly was pastor of Raytown Christian Church near Kansas City and held several significant pastorates in Kansas.

He was born in Concordia, Kan., grew up in Enid, Okla., and received bachelor of arts, master of arts and doctor of divinity degrees from Phillips University in Enid. He also attended New College of University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and the School of Religion of University of Tubingen, Germany. In 1963, he was honored by Phillips with the doctor of divinity degree.

MAN IS A RESPONSIBLE BEING

On this, the first Sunday in Lent, Christians need to pause and re-examine their relationships with God.

Possibly it is time for us to make church membership more meaningful and more difficult to receive. In the early days of Christianity individuals were screened with great care before they were accepted for baptism.

During Lent one should prepare for a renewal of his faith. It is a time for self-examination, a time for discipline, and a time to approach the future in more Christian commitment.

Paul told his followers that Christ offered them a "new nature." As God's followers they were to put on "compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness and patience, forbearing one another and forgiving each other."

Since the Creation man has been responsible for his own acts. He must be obedient to God. Man, however, has many faults. One of the greatest is his inclination to blame someone else for his own acts.

Still man is something special. He is a highly developed animal, a noble being, a free being who is fundamentally good. In any relationship between God and man two words are significant, freedom and accountability.

With the power of freedom man has the potential for greatness and nobility or the potential for cruelty and evil. Or, as Benjamin Disraeli once remarked, man can choose to be an angel or an ape.

Many responsibilities are faced by all of us today. Recently former President Lyndon Johnson said we should have "unceasing concern for the welfare, dignity, decency, and innate integrity of life for every individual regardless of color, creed, ancestry, sex, or age."

While Johnson was discussing our unequal history, he was elaborating on our responsibilities as human beings created by God.

In the beginning man was provided with all of his needs Yet he failed to follow the simple guidelines given in the Garden of Eden and his responsibilities were expanded.

Man now has to provide more for himself. And he has to provide for his brothers as well if he wants to follow God's teachings. He has the privilege of living on this world; he has responsibilities as well to take care of it.

Some debates are occurring about our need to curb the world population growth in order to save the world. We also see some need to restructure the concept of urban living or our cities will perish. We must take risks in order to save ourselves.

All persons directly or indirectly operate under some code of ethics. The radio and television media have codes as well as the motion picture industry. Even the writers of comic books have a set of principles.

Newspapermen operate under some canons of journalism. While they admit their primary function is to communicate what humans do to other humans, the newsmen accept their responsibility to be sincere, truthful, and accurate.

Doctors and lawyers too have their codes. Like the other professional persons they have specific responsibilities to their clients.

Our life is a stewardship for which we are held accountable by God. Our neighbors hold us responsible for our actions in our neighborhood. And today's memory lesson is from Romans 14:12: "Each of us shall give account of himself to God."

God is a responsible creator. He expects us to be responsible creatures. He has given us many benefits yet He holds us accountable. One day each of us will have to settle our accounts with Him.

Responsiblility can be a lifetime assignment.

The New Direction coming

The New Direction is a unique youth ministry composed of 10 young Christians who tell it all in a presentation that features choreography, lighting, full dimensional sound and a five-screen multi- media background.

The concerts are being sponsored by Trinity Baptist Church, and the doors will open at 6:45 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Coffey's TV and Appliance downtown and at Rye's Jewelers Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Youth have charge of revival

MINER— The youth of Miner Baptist Church will be engaged in a revival effort this weekend, tonight through Sunday, led by a team from Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar.

The youth of the church will be in charge of the services, featuring a choir, special music, ushering and other assignments.

The team from Bolivar includes Steve Shipman, evangelist; Jan Coffey, music director; and Dave Stevens, pianist.

The services will be of interest to adults, as well as young people and children, and a nursery will be provided, according to the Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor.

Services begin each evening at 7 o'clock and Sunday morning at 10:30.

Elm Street revival set

CHARLESTON— Revival services will begin at Elm Street Baptist Church Sunday and will continue through March 18 at 7:30 each night.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Calvin C. Wilkins, pastor of Briensburg Baptist Church at Benton, Ky., Route Seven.

The singing will be under the direction of Rondal Adams, minister of music for Hayward Baptist Church, Portageville Route Two.

The Rev. Bob Williamson, pastor, will preach at Sunday's services then will be joined by the Rev. Mr. Wilkins on Monday.

Nursery care will be provided nightly for children through three years old.

Area Methodists to hear Missionary

The Rev. Vivian Otto, a United Methodist missionary to Rhodesia for 22 years, who is presently between assignments, will speak at First United Methodist Church on Highway 61 North Sunday night following a congregational dinner in her honor at 6 p.m.

Miss Otto has taught primarily at teacher training schools at Old Umtali, Mutambara and Nyadiri, all in Rhodesia. She also served as headmistress at various schools there. For a short time she was involved in Women's work at Epworth Tehological College near Salisbury, Rhodesia.

Born in Saginaw, Mich., Miss Otto is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and Asbury Theological Seminary. She has also studied at Yale University and Garrett Theological Seminary. She is a member of the Rhodesia Annual Conference, having been ordained in 1953.

Prior to her appearance at First United Methodist Church, Miss Otto will speak at the Church School hour on Sunday morning at the East Prairie United Methodist Church. She will preach at the 10:45 worship service at the Charleston United Methodist Church; and, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, she will address a missionary rally at the Bertrand church with the Methodist churches from Bertrand, Wyatt, Dogwood, Anniston, Bridges, Morehouse and Wesley in Sikeston involved.

Continuing her schedule in the Poplar Bluff- Sikeston District, Miss Otto will speak for a 9:30 a.m. meeting Monday at the Caruthersville United Methodist Church, followed by a 2 p.m. presentation at First United Methodist Church in Kennett.

She will appear before the New Madrid Rotary Club Monday at 6:15 p.m., before addressing a group meeting at 7:30 at the New Madrid church, including Kewanee, Lilbourn, Marston and Portageville, as well as the New Madrid church.

On Tuesday afternoon, Miss Otto will address the two United Methodist churches in Poplar Bluff -- First and Grace, along with Good Hope, Agee and Qulin churches. That evening, she will speak in Doniphan for a combined group of 10 of the smaller churches in that area.

According to Dr. Elbridge Bartley, United Methodist district superintendent, Miss Otto will complete her visit to the district on Wednesday by addressing a prayer breakfast group meeting at the Hickory House restaurant in Dexter at 6:30 a.m. Then, following a 10:30 a.m. meeting at Dexter United Methodist Church, she will speak to the Kiwanis Club of Bloomfield at noon.

Malden United Methodist Church will entertain her at a tea Wednesday afternoon, assisted by the Parma and Bernie United Methodist Churches. That evening, she will speak for representatives of the churches at Williamsville and Ellsinore at the Williamsville church.

Shamburger to preach for Bridges revival

BERTRAND — The Rev. William J. Shamburger, pastor of the Lilbourn and Parma United Methodist Churches, will preach in revival services at Bridges United Methodist Church Wednesday through Sunday, according to the Rev. Mike Smity, pastor.

Services will start at 7:30 p.m. during the week and at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Sermon topics for the services are "Old Time Religion", "Who Cares", "Believe God", "Escape From Judgment" and "Born Again and Knowing It".

The Rev. Mr. Shamburger holds a bachelor of arts degree from Ouachita Baptist University, bachelor of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth and doctor of philosophy degree from Universidad de San Martin de Porras of Lima, Peru, where he also did mission work.

Bridges community is five and a half miles south of Bertrand off Route C in Mississippi County.

Sox troubled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Manager Stu Holcomb is getting a red neck over some Chicago White Sox who are holding out for more green.

Holcomb, who placed holdouts Jay Johnstone and Ed Spiezio on waivers Wednesday, threatened Thursday to fine the other three balky Sox—pitcher Stan Bahnsen, infielder Mike Andrews and outfielder Rick Reichardt.

"I don't know of any rule that says I can't fine them if the notion hits me," Holcomb said, "and believe me, it's coming on."

Andrews and Reichardt are balking at pay cuts which would drop them below $50,000. Bahnsen, a 21-game winner in 1972, reportedly has been offered $60,000-65,000 but is seeking more.

However, several other salary wars came to an end.

Minnesota slugger Harmon Killebrew accepted a reported $5,000 pay slash to $110,000 but Calvin Griffith, president of the Twins, said Killebrew could increase his earnings with "contingency" clauses.

The contingencies reportedly include a rebound in attendance to more than 1.1 million and a certain number of appearances by the 36-year-old Killebrew, who ranks fourth on baseball's all-time home run list with 541.

The Twins drew only 797,101 spectators last season and Killebrew played in 139 games despite a painful foot injury which necessitated postseason surgery.

The New York Yankees got outfielder Roy White's signature for an estimated $70,000 and relief ace Mike Marshall received a substantial hike from the Montreal Expos after a season in which he won 14 games and posted a 1.78 earned run average.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Royals signed outfielder Amos Otis and pitcher Tom Burgmeier while catcher Paul Casanova came to terms with the Atlanta Braves.

In exhibition action, the New York Mets edged the Detroit Tigers 4-3 on Don Hahn's 10thinning single; the Boston Red Sox jumped on rookie Mike Pazik for six runs, including Carlton Fisk's two-run homer, in the first inning and trounced the New York Yankees 7-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to beat Minnesota 7-6 after the Twins scored four times in the top of the frame.

Spinks adds to Cardinals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — What's a Scipio Spinks?

It's a grown man who sleeps with a stuffed gorilla. And, it's a loveable clown whose shenanigans keep the St. Louis Cardinals laughing.

But, most of all, a Scipio Spinks is a fast-balling righthanded pitcher for the National League baseball team, a man with the talent to possibly replace aging superstar Bob Gibson as the ace of the Cards' staff.

"During my six years in the Houston Astros' chain, most of the managers thought of me as some kind of wise-guy hot dog who wasn't serious enough to be a winning pitcher in the major leagues," Spinks said.

"Now that I'm with the Cardinals, where people have a sense of humor, I'm regarded as both a big league pitcher and a guy who can keep the team loose with humor."

Lettered on his jersey was "Brock."

Autograph seekers picked up his trail, hawking No. 20 with pencils and pads waving.

"Sign this, Mr. Brock," asked one fan.

"Don't bother me, son," said the No. 20 Cardinal.

"I'm a busy man. But, since you came out here to see the best baserunner in the world I'll sign it for you."

Had Lou Brock, the nice guy superstar of the Cards, suddenly gone sour? Not really. It wasn't Brock in that uniform at all. It was an imposter in a stolen uniform...it was Scipio Spinks.

"Big-name stars are the easiest to kid with," Spinks said Thursday. "Brock, Gibson, Joe Torre—people of that caliber—take it, then they dish it back. It keeps everybody smiling."

Spinks had the Cards thinking of a pennant last summer. St. Louis was on a 22-6 streak and close to Pittsburgh in the NL East.

Then, in a collision with Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, Spinks messed up his knee. He was finished with a 5-5 record and 2.67 earned run average.

St. Louis was finished, too. The Cardinals went 37-47 the rest of the season and the Pirates walked away with the race. It's not surprising that Manager Red Scoendienst says, "I'm delighted to have Spinks back, for more reasons than one." Spinks' wife, Areda, and their 7-month-old daughter, Terri Lynn, are home in Oklahoma City while Scipio is in training. But, he does have a roommate here.

It's Mighty Joe Young, the stuffed gorilla.

Spinks talks to this make-believe animal. He claims Joe talks back. It's all a part of Spinks' blithe spirit, and Cardinal teammates also kid the pet ape when firing barbs at Scipio.

"They can pick on me, but they'd better lay off Mighty Joe Young," Spinks said, faking seriousness. "Joe likes to watch TV. We enjoy the same shows. My wife enjoys the idea of me rooming with Joe. She figures it keeps me out of trouble."

NCAA playoffs begin Saturday

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Houston and controversial Southwestern Louisiana, two nationally ranked basketball powers, collide Saturday in the first round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Midwest playoffs.

The game, first of two, begins at 3:10 p. m. CST. It will be followed by a battle of two unranked clubs, Texas Tech and South Carolina.

Houston, ranked No. 7 defeated 14th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana, involved in court action resulting from 125 charges brought against the school by the NCAA, in an earlier meeting at Houston 82-80.

Dwight Lamar, Southwestern's big scorer with a 29.7-point average, saw only limited action in the first game and scored 18 points. He's ready for fulltime duty in this one.

Asked how Houston guarded Lamar, Coach Guy Lewis replied:

"I don't think we did. His shooting zone is one step over the middle line. I think he's the finest guard in college basketball."

"They beat us on the boards pretty good," says Southwestern Coach Beryl Shipley, "and having Lamar fulltime won't change that unless the ball goes in.

"We know Houston is real tough. They're awfully big, strong and physical. We'd rather play them in Wichita than Houston. I feel we can beat Houston if he have a good game. If we don't, we'll be going home quick. We're down to a one-game season."

Assistant Coach George Davidson of Texas Tech, who has scouted South Carolina, says the Gamecocks are "traditionally a power. They have exceptionally fine talent.

"Everyone is aware of Kevin Joyce's credentials. As far as counting the Red Raiders out, no. It's going to be a tough game but sizewise, we can match up pretty well.

"We've never counted ourselves out of the game — that's why we won the Southwest Conference championship."

200-plus bowlers

Wayne Baker, manager of Imperial Lanes, congratulates Brenda Tyrone and Anice Baker in their bowling feats. Brenda bowled a 257 game and had a 620 series while Anice shot a 253 game and scored a 681 series during recent league play.

Sports Corner

by Ron Jaynes

It's official! Sikeston will resume junior high athletics next season.

Senior high principal, Roger Sherman, told the Daily Standards sports department early this week that the sports of football, basketball, wrestling and track will be initiated at the eighth grade level, beginning with the 1973- 74 school year.

The junior high athletic program at Sikeston was discontinued five years ago and since then SHS has fallen to the wayside in competition with area schools.

Bulldog coaches, who have turned in surprising records under the handicap, has been the center of blame since then, but the real blame should have been tagged on the group that dropped the program.

Beware of the Bulldogs...their pups will get the training they've desperately needed...and the SHS athletic program will return to prominence!!!!!

The Sikeston fast pitch softball association will conduct a meeting Sunday at the First National Bank community room, starting at 2:30.

Rufus Lavender, league president, noted that the league is seeking additional teams and anyone wishing to enter a squad should be present at the meeting.

Farmington high school has openings for three teams in their basketball tournament next year. The dates are: Nov. 26, 27, 29 and 30. Any interested teams may contact Jim Dinwiddie, Athletic Director at the high school.

Area high school golf, track, tennis and baseball coaches are urged to mail the Daily Standard sports department copies of its 1973 spring sports schedule.

Southeast Missouri may well produce a high school state baseball champion this season. The sport has been divided into two divisions, which will separate the larger schools and the smaller ones. It should be an interesting season.

To Ron Jaynes & his Sports Staff

We fans, students, and ballplayers do not!!! appreciate the way you all support our Kelly Hawks ball team. We think we have the best ball club in the state of Missouri. We are very proud of Kelly and do not!!!!like the way you run us down in your paper. If we haven't proved to you and your sports staff yet we are a very good!!!!ballclub I would like to know what we have to do, beat the Los Angeles Lakers.

Next year I hope you will be a little more respectful to us at Kelly.

Waters, Matthews to serve as S.H.S. student body heads

Charlie Waters and Drew Matthews were selected Tuesday by Sikeston high school voters to serve as 1973-74 student body president and vice president.

Waters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Waters, 109 Salcedo Road, and is presently employed by J. C. Penney and Company. He is currently a member of biology club, honor society, band, and student council.

Matthews, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Matthews, 710 Hickory, is employed as bookkeeper at the Sikeston Aluminum Company. The junior is president of his class this year, a member of both biology and math club and also serves as junior photographer to the Bulldog Barker newspaper staff. He is also a third - year letterman in track, where his main event is the high hurdles.

Actual balloting by the students during their lunch periods Tuesday capped the preceding week's activities of intensified campaigning and sign-painting.

That morning the student body assembled in the fieldhouse to hear speeches by the four candidates for president and vice president, Waters, Matthews, John Hoffman, and Ronald Marks, and to view entertainment and skits presented on behalf of each candidate.

The first action by the new student body officers will be to attend the Missouri Association of Student Councils convention in Joplin, March 16-18. They will be accompanied by this year's president and vice president, Pat Lancaster and Mark Shaw, and student council sponsor, Mrs. Harlice Coates.

PETUNIAS DETECT

NEW YORK (AP) — Fish and petunias may come to rival canaries as pollution detectors.

Nearly everyone knows that canaries have been used to give early warning signals of foul air in mines. Now various plants, including petunias, are being tested in government laboratories at Beltsville, Md., for clues to various air-borne pollutants. And Science News reports that fish responses may provide instantaneous gauges of water pollutants.

Equipment company gets contract for new fire truck

BLOOMFIELD— The Ozark Fire Extinguishing and Equipment Co. of Springfield Thursday night was awarded the contract to supply Bloomfield a new fire truck.

The firm submitted a low bid of $12,805, excluding the cost of the chassis and hose. Ozark will loan the city a used fire truck until the new one arrives.

Towers Fire Apparatus Equipment Co. of Freeburg, Ill., submitted a bid of $14,319.

The council agreed to use the old fire truck for rural calls at no cost to the city after the new truck arrives. The council decided to purchase revolving red lights, two smoke masks and some additional hoses for the present fire truck.

The council ordered a city dog pound built in accordance with humane society regulations and passed an ordinance requiring all dog owners to innoculate their dogs and purchase dog tags.

The council agreed to increase the mayor's monthly expense account, effective after April 3. The allowance was raised from $25 to $100 per month.

Q—What are the primary colors?

A—Red, yellow, blue.

Bernie gets new fire truck

BERNIE — Mrs. Geneva Pyle, city clerk, reported today that the city received a new fire truck at noon Tuesday.

The new truck will be stationed in the new fire station south of the city hall. Total cost of the truck and equipment is $21,319.98.

The truck, purchased from Ozark Fire Extinguishing and Equipment Co. of Springfield, was ordered early last summer.

3 juveniles held for tape player theft

CHARLESTON — Three juveniles are being held on stealing charges by juvenile authorities in connection with the theft of a tape player Wednesday afternoon from Waggener Tire Center, 604 E. Marshall St., according to Deputy Sheriff Robert Smith.

The tape player, valued at $69.95, was recovered Thursday by Smith and Police Chief Bob Ritchey.

Therapists set meeting tonight

Dr. Thomas Waltrip of Sikeston will discuss "research and treatment of cystic fibrosis" at a meeting tonight of the Missouri Physical Therapy Association, Southeast Missouri District.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the Missouri Delta Community Hospital. Thomas Richey, head of the physical therapy department at the hospital will be host for the meeting.

Physical therapists from Sikeston, Cape Girardeau, Poplar Bluff, Dexter, Kennett, Ste. Genevieve and Perryville will attend.

East Prairie budget accepted

EAST PRAIRIE-- The city budget, as submitted by City Manager Gene Cullen was reviewed and accepted Thursday night by the City Council.

Estimated revenue for the year from April 1 to March 31, 1974, totals $278,200. Estimated expenditures are $275,450.

Specifications for a new fire truck were reviewed and the council authorized Cullen to accept bids.

The council approved the issuing of a $150 check to the law enforcement council crime laboratory in Cape Girardeau. The laboratory has been used to help Mississippi County law enforcement officers, and the county has been asked for $500 to help pay for the services.

The County Court has given $200 and Charleston $150.

A letter of intent is being forwarded to the Federal Insurance Administration for the purpose of qualifying the city for federal flood insurance. If requirements are met, citizens who desire flood insurance will be able to purchase it from local agents.

Carey Johnson, chairman of the planning and zoning commission, was present and a discussion was held on the commission's recommendation for subdivision regulations and zoning ordinances.

A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. March 19 in the high school library before the recommended ordinances are adopted.

In routine action the council approved a collector's report of $16,461.70 for February payment of expenditures of $2,475.46 and the police judge's report, which showed $734 assessed in fines for the month with $614 collected. The difference was worked out.

Trio sentenced

Three men were sentenced to jail Thursday night in City Court on charges of driving while intoxicated. Fines of $110 also were levied against each man.

Sentenced were Paul C. Johnson of Charleston, Harry G. Menken Sr., 818 Wayne, and John Lon Cray, 324 Selma. Menken's jail time was suspended, on condition of one year good behavior. Twenty-five of Cray's 30 days were suspended on good behavior.

Three other men were fined $110 for driving while intoxicated. They were Noah A. Strickland of Bertrand Route One; James O. Poor of East Prairie; and Jewell M. Michael of Benton. Another man, Danny Joe Byrd of Route Two, forfeited bond of $110.

Charges of driving while intoxicated were continued to future dates against William H. Vaughn, 106 S. Sixth St., and William Franklin Evans, 520 E. Center St.

Court appearances for Thomas Lee Brasenell, 320 Missouri and Jimmie Dale Ray, 1618 Matthews, were reset for March 21. Brasenell is charged with discharging a firearm in the city and displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon. Ray is charged with displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon.

Charges stem from an incident Saturday night at Russell's Bull Dog Inn on East Malone where Ray and Brasenell allegedly threatened to kill two men. Brasenell allegedly fired a 16 gauge shotgun into the air during the incident.

Four persons were fined for allowing their dogs to run loose. Fred Thorton, 8 Beaird Drive, was fined $15; Henry Powell, 109 Taylor, $15; Michael Tournier, 815 Ruth, $19; and Dora Vogel, 309 Circle Drive, $15.

Other arrests included Jimmy Lee Sloan, Route Two, assault and battery, forfeited bond of $60; Kathy Lynn Ditto, 202 Center, speeding, $55; Susan Kay Howell, 233 Broadway, careless and imprudent driving, dismissed.

Judgment awarded

NEW MADRID — Barbara Ann Leslie was awarded $335 judgment for damages against Charles Louis Adams in a jury trial Thursday in Circuit Court.

Judge Marshall Craig of Charleston presided in the case which had been transferred from Pemsicot County on a change of venue.

Taxes total $19,878.83

BENTON — Scott County Collector Tom Marshall reports $19,878.83 in tax collections during February.

Personal property, real estate and merchant's tax collections were included.

The funds will be distributed as follows:

State, $122.19; county, $2,015.69; county special roads, $1,124.83; health, $407.21; library, $190.31; Johnson grass, $81.64; and county drainage districts $551.13.

Among county schools, Illmo- Scott City R-1 will receive $2,479.43; Chaffee R-2, $1,563.25; Oran R-3, $944.35; Kelly R-4, $1,992.22; Scott Central R-5, $1,318.73; Sikeston R-6, $7,284.12; and Kelso - New Hamburg, C-7, $243.73.

According to Marshall, all taxes collected are delinquent and bear a two per cent penalty and three per cent interest if paid in the month of March.

Delinquent back tax books are now being prepared. Taxpayers are reminded that real estate taxes not paid for the year 1970 will be subject to tax sale in August.

Hearing set for March 15

BLOOMFIELD — James Robert Gadis, 17, of Matthews had his preliminary hearing set for March 15 in Magistrate Court Thursday before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer.

Gadis is charged with parole violation from New Madrid County, two counts of tampering with a motor vehicle and felonious escape from the Stoddard County Jail. Gadis and four other subjects made their escape on Feb. 23 at approximately 10:20 p.m. by prying away a bar and climbing through a window on the south side of the jail. All five were recaptured that same night at Dexter.

Elmer Eugene Green of Dexter, charged with driving while intoxicated, a third offense, had his preliminary hearing set for March 15. Green is presently serving a 60 day jail sentence for driving while his licenses were revoked.

James T. Cato of Zalma pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. His driver's license was suspended and he was fined $100 and court costs.

James Earl Young of Parma pleaded guilty to charges of careless and imprudent driving and no operators license. His fine was set at $15 and court costs.

Charles E. Houart of Bloomfield pleaded guilty to charges of failing to register his motor vehicle and having no license plates on his car. He was fined $10 and court costs.

Wesley E. Dunivan of Advance paid a fine of $10 and costs, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of having expired vehicle plates.

John Earl Joiner of Blytheville, Ark. pleaded guilty to a charge of having no operator's license. He paid a fine of $5 and court costs.

Roger Dale Gromer of Bloomfield was fined $10 and court costs after pleading guilty to a charge of having no vehicle license.

Claude W. Toombs of Parma pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and imprudent driving. Toombs was fined $10 and court costs.

William Eugene Bennett of Bloomfield pleaded not guilty to the charge of speeding and his trial by court was set for March 22.

Georgia Ruth Richardson pleaded guilty to charges of having no vehicle or operator's license. Her fine was set at $10 and court costs.

Those pleading guilty to charges of speeding paid fines and court costs. They were: Robert L. Libla Jr., $12; Wayne A. Redfern, $21; David G. Ventling, $20; Jerrell Keith Harg, $24; Peggy Darlene McCoy, $15; Michael E. Harris, $13 and Eva Dennis, $21.

Workshop plans in last stages

MALDEN — Plans for the establishment of sheltered workshops in Malden and Kennett are nearing final stages, according to Charles Royal of Malden, president of the board of Cotton Boll Sheltered Workshop, Inc.

Royal announced that all preliminary work has been completed and now it is a matter of compiling the documents from Kennett and Malden and forwarding them.

The workshops will provide employment for the handicapped that has never before been available in the immediate areas. Not only will the handicapped benefit, but also all industries that work with the workshop will receive benefits.

Positions are open for director, supervisor and secretary. Interested persons should send resumes to Charles Royal, First National Bank, Malden, or the Rev. Paul Harlan, First Presbyterian Church in Kennett.

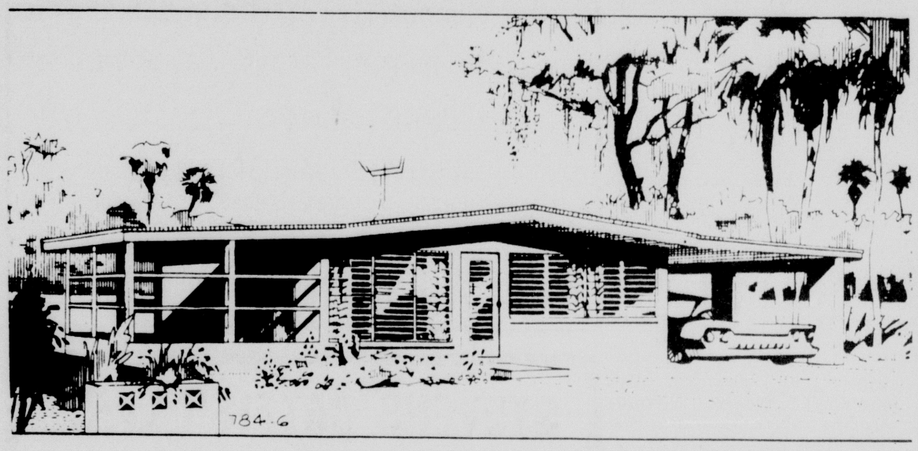
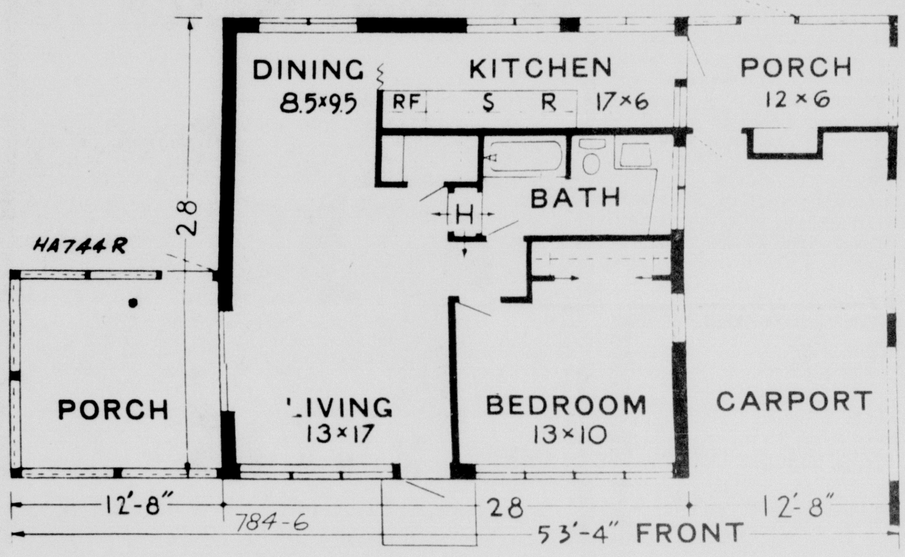
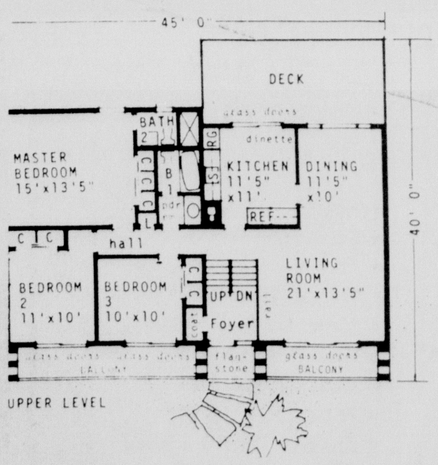
HOMES FOR AMERICANS

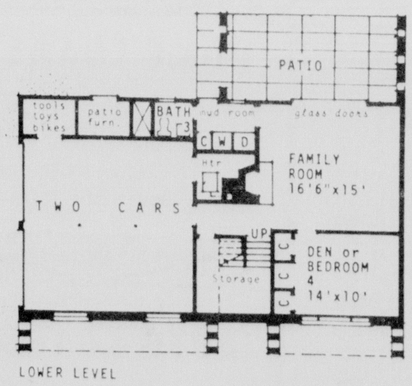




THE GENTLY SLOPING saddle roof of Plan HA744R makes the house look much larger than it really is. The 12 by 12 screen porch extends the living room, via a sliding glass door. The dining area is handy to the kitchen. And the kitchen has a breakfast nook, as well as a door to a back porch, also suitable for outdoor eating. There are 784 square feet in this home, designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS





HA753C

THE BI-LEVEL is the answer to a lot of living on a small lot with a slope. This house shows a double-height entry flanked by railed balconies. On the lower level there's a bedroom, bath, family room, utility-laundry, garage and storage. The main level has three more bedrooms, two baths and lots of closet space. The rear deck is a summer entertaining area. Plan HA753C was designed by architect Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036. Anyone wishing to know the price of the blueprint can write to Cohen. Upper level area is 1,145 square feet.

Burial will be in East Prairie Memorial Park Cemetery.

Economy will get worse before better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the sharp rise in food and fuel prices in the latest wholesale-price report, the White House is sticking to its economic policies and urging the American people to be patient.

The situation will get worse before it gets better for the consumer, the Nixon administration says. Or, as one official of the Cost of Living Council put it: "It's going to be tough the next few months, really tough."

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz has been saying in recent days that despite big increases, retail food prices will be no higher at the end of the year than they were at the beginning.

In his recent economic State of the Union message tt Congress, President Nixon said food prices would continue their sharp upward trend for the first half of the year. But he said his action to increase supplies would have a powerful impact on prices in the second half.

This means the administration expects many food prices—but probably not meat prices—to decline sharply after July 1 because of its emphasis on increasing supplies by changing government agricultural policy. Meat prices probably will continue at a high level.

Meanwhile, the Senate Banking Committee voted Thursday to give Nixon standby authority to ration petroleum products, including gasoline, as part of a bill extending his wage-price control authority.

The bill also directs the administration to report every three months on steps taken to hold down food prices.

The administration has rejected a freeze on food prices and direct controls on farm products despite the latest increase in food prices. It contends controls would only make the situation worse and lead to black marketing and rationing.

The Cost of Living Council, in what was called a consumer protection move, earlier in the week reimposed price controls in the oil industry. The February Wholesale Price Index released Thursday showed that the price of petroleum and other fuels was one of the main reasons for non food price increases.

Gas-rationing authority is included in recommendation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline-rationing authority for President Nixon is included in a Senate committee's recommendation for a one-year extension of his powers to control wages and prices.

The President would be directed, under the bill approved Thursday by the Senate Banking Committee, to report every three months on what steps he has taken to hold down food prices.

The approval came after the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in its monthly report, said wholesale prices for farm products and processed foods increased in the last three months at a seasonally adjusted rate of 56 per cent.

Petroleum products cost 12.5 per cent more than a year ago.

The committee defeated on tie votes amendments to make Phase 3 tougher by imposing rent controls in metropolitan areas and to return to the kind of wage-price control system, known as Phase 2, that Nixon abandoned Jan. 11.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Harrison Williams, D-N.J, promised a floor fight on this when the bill is before the full Senate.

Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., originally had offered an amendment in collaboration with Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., to give the president authority to allocate and ration any scarce commodities.

But several senators said the authority was too broad

McIntyre changed it to read "petroleum products," which have been in short supply, especially in New England.

"This is standby power," McIntyre said. "I'd rather have the President do this than Mobil, Shell, Exxon, etc."

Mandatory controls over petroleum products were reimposed by the Cost of Living Council Tuesday. Petroleum price hikes were listed as 5.7 percent last month in the Wholesale Price Index.

The committee also approved requiring corporations to publicly disclose the arithmetic behind the price hikes they seek from the Cost of Living Council, which now keeps the information confidential. The intent is that publicity will help hold down prices.

The committee also raised the wage-exemption guidelines from $2.75 an hour to $3.50. Those earning below that would not be subject to the 5.5-percent-a-year guideline.

More people at work in February

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total number of Americans at work rose sharply in February, indicating an expanding economy, while the unemployment rate edged up slightly, the Labor Department reported today.

Total employment rose nearly 800,000 to 81.8 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The total number of unemployed workers rose 170,000 to 4.8 million for a seasonally adjusted rate of 5.1 per cent of the work force. This was up from 5 per cent in January, the report said.

The report noted a substantial gain in the length of the average work week of 24 minutes to 37.3 hours for nonfarm payrolls.

The longer work week also helped boost average earnings of some 50 million rank and file workers by $150 to $139.48 per week.

The bureau said average weekly earnings were up $8.47, or 6.5 per cent, per week over the past year. Over the same time span living costs rose 3.7 per cent.

On a seasonal basis, an adjustment for normal developments, both the rise in employment and unemployment were smaller. The bureau figured the total increase in jobs at 570,000 and the total rise in unemployed at about 75,000 on the seasonal basis. The report called the unemployment situation virtually unchanged from January.

Nearly two- thirds of the increase in jobs was among women, the report said.

The nation's total employment has increased by 2.5 million in the past year, it said, while total unemployment has declined by nearly 600,000.

The big boost in jobs for women reduced their unemployment rate from 5.3 per cent to 4.9 per cent in February with a total of 1,577,000.

The unemployment rate for men edged up slightly from 3.3 per cent to 3.4 per cent with a total of 2,067,000.

The jobless rate for teenagers climbed from 14.3 per cent to 15.8 per cent with a total of 1,200,000.

Recommendations are approved by R-1 school board

CHARLESTON — The R-1 School District board of education Thursday night approved two recommendations from the Community Teachers Association Welfare Committee.

Approved were a sick leave-business leave policy and a base pay salary schedule. The committee had requested that teachers be allowed two of the nine days allotted for sick leave for business purposes if needed, subject to board approval.

The board also approved the base salary of $6,800. Base salary for teachers had previously been $6,400.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. April 4 to certify election results and elect officers for the coming year.

Motion denied

BENTON— A motion to suppress evidence by the defense attorney in the case against Joyce Jones of Sikeston was denied in Circuit Court Thursday by Judge Marshall Craig.

Mrs. Jones allegedly attempted to kill her husband on Nov. 8 with a .22 caliber pistol while they were sitting in his car at the corner of South West Street and West Malone Avenue.

Mrs. Jones reportedly fired several shots at her husband, but hit him only in the leg. The two then struggled for control of the gun and she was shot in the hand. Trial was set for March 20.

James O. Conyers was sentenced to three years in custody of State Department of Correction on the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney, Jim Moore.

Conyers applied for probation but was denied. He was charged with writing a $100 bad check to Oklahoma Tire and Supply Co. of Sikeston on Feb. 14, 1970.

The cease-fire agreement was reached shortly before a government deadline that would have allowed all the invaders of Wounded Knee to depart unarmed without threat of immediate arrest.

A clergyman in the village during the firing, the Rev. Wesley Hunter, said he and AIM leaders were discussing a three- point peace plan, which included the cease-fire.

'Agreement' reached at Wounded Knee

WOUNDED KNEE, S.D. (AP) — The Justice Department said today the government has "reached an agreement in principle" with militant Indians at Wounded Knee, but added that procedures still had to be worked out to end the 11-day occupation of the historic village.

The announcement was made in Washington, and there was no word at once from the Indians or officials of the Justice and Interior departments who have been negotiating the conflict at Wounded Knee.

The announcement in Washington said the agreement in principle with attorneys for the American Indian Movement "could settle current problems at Wounded Knee."

It added, however, that certain procedural matters pertaining to "the manner and time the nonresidents will depart Wounded Knee" had yet to be resolved.

There were no other details announced at once.

Some 200 Indians took over the hamlet Feb. 27. Federal lawmen have manned a perimeter around the village, and there have been periodic exchanges of gunfire. Two Indians were wounded Thursday night, the Justice Deartment said.

The Indians principal demand in the past few days has been removal of the Oglala Souix tribal leader. Federal officials have said in the past they would not meet the demand.

Also unresolved have been the questions of surrender of weapons and whether mass arrests would be made.

A short time before the Justice Department announcement, the lawyers for the Indians reentered the hamlet.

The stage for the renewed talks was set Thursday night when the Indians and government officials declared a ceasefire. It came shortly before the government's deadline for the Indians to leave the village took effect.

Before the Justice Department announcement, there had been reports that an agreement was in the works.

In Washington today, Sen. James Abourezk, a South Dakota Democrat who visited Wounded Knee last week, said he been told by friends and a staff member that an agreement had been reached and would probably be announced later in the day. He said he had no details.

There was no confirmation in Wounded Knee from Indians or officials of the Justice and Interior departments.

Federal authorities said there was no gunfire after midnight, but two Indians were injured in shooting just before the ceasefire took effect Thursday night.

South Dakota and Nebraska state troopers sealed off highways leading into Wounded Knee. Only residents of the area and representatives of news media were permitted past the roadblocks, set up as far as 30 miles from the village.

The Indians said they would not let the shooting jeopardize a possible peaceful settlement of the confrontation.

"We will use restraint rather than let this have a violent ending," said Dennis Banks, a Chippewa who was among the leaders in the takeover of Wounded Knee.

"Maybe the government has jeopardized its position with the shooting," Banks said, "but I still hope negotiations can continue."

The talks that resumed today were a continuation of negotiations broken off by the government Wednesday.

An intense exchange of gunfire occurred before the ceasefire was to go into effect. The cease-fire was announced first in Washington and was not known to all Indians when the shots were fired, a government spokesman said.

Jack Hushen, a Justice Department official, told newsmen Indians had initiated the shooting by firing on a government road-block. No comment was available from Indian spokesmen regarding which side had initiated the gunfire.

Hushen said the fire was returned by some of the estimated 300 federal marshals and FBI agents manning a perimeter around Wounded Knee, a hamlet on the Pine Ridge Reservation.

Hushen said federal authorities knew of one Indian who suffered a bullet wound in the hand and another who injured his leg. Newsmen inside the hamlet reported two Indians were shot, one in the hand and one in the leg. No identities were available.

Melton takes New Madrid school post

EAST PRAIRIE-- Ray Melton resigned as superintendent of the R- 2 School District Thursday morning and has accepted the position of superintendent of the New Madrid R- 1 Enlarged School District for a two- year term, effective July 1.

Melton, 48, has been superintendent of the R- 2 School District since 1964. He was high school principal from 1956 to 1964. From 1949 through 1956 he was a social studies teacher and coached basketball and baseball in grades seven through 12. He was an elementary teacher and coach at Anniston from 1946 until joining the East Prairie district in 1949.

A graduate of Anniston High School, Melton holds a Bachelor of Science in Education from the Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau and a Master of Arts in Educational Administration from Murray State University in Murray, Ky. His professional association memberships include the East Prairie Community Teachers Association, Southeast Missouri State Teachers Association, Missouri State Teachers Association, National Education Association, Missouri and American Association of School Administrators, Parent Teachers Association, State and National School Boards Association, Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development and Phi Delta Kappa.

Ray Melton

He has served as president, vice president and a member of the executive committee for the Southeast Missouri District Teachers Association.

Melton is married to the former Ellouise Garwood of Charleston. Mrs. Melton, a first grade teacher in the R.A. Doyle Elementary School, presently serves as chairman of East Prairie Community Betterment and is active in local civic organizations. They are members of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Melton will also be teaching in the New Madrid District next year.

"My wife and I have had a wonderful experience working in East Prairie for the past 24 years and we both hope we've made some contribution to the community," Melton said. "The position of superintendent of the New Madrid District is a professional opportunity I consider an honor and privilege to have received," he said.

Melton fills the vacancy caused by the resignation of Dr. George S. Reuter Jr., who declined to accept a one year contract offered by the school board.

Dr. Reuter has served as the first administrator for the district since March 1, 1970 following reorganization in 1968. The district includes schools in Matthews, New Madrid, Lilbourn, Parma and Portageville.

The position of superintendent of the East Prairie district is open and according to Melton applicants may contact Miss Marie Baker, board secretary at P.O. Box 100, East Prairie, Mo. 63845.

Audits standard procedure, Head Start director says

Audits of such programs as Delta Area Head Start are standard procedure for University of Missouri Extension, the new Head Start director, Ed Greenfield, said today.

He made the statement in response to published reports that a federal audit has been ordered for the Delta Area Head Start program.

"It is standard procedure for the University to conduct audits and program review when there is a change in administration of any extension program," the new director said.

"The Governor's Office and federal agencies involved in Head Start have asked for copies of the final audit, which we will gladly provide," Greenfield said.

He said only one audit will be conducted and that it would be administered by an independent auditing firm.

Greenfield said that federal agencies, such as the Office of Child Development, annually conduct a review of all Head Start programs.

Linda Carson, of the regional Office of Child Development in Kansas City, said that there are two audits now in process for the Head Start program in Portageville, and both are routine.

One is the annual audit which is required of all the agencies under their jurisdiction, she said. This audit is due in the office within six months following the end of the program year, which was Dec. 31, 1972 for Head Start. The annual audit must be done by an outside Certified Public Accountant firm, which the local agency chooses, she added.

A special internal audit is also being conducted by the University of Missouri auditors, she said. Mrs. Carson explained that this is just a good management procedure which is conducted when there is a management change.

Both the audits were in process or in the planning state before the governor ordered the federal audit of Head Start, she explained and none others are planned at present.

Greenfield, assumed the position as director of Head Start this week after his appointment was approved Feb. 20 by the Delta Area Head Start policy planning committee.

He succeeds Mike Cooper, who resigned Dec. 31 to take a new youth development position for University Extension in the Bootheel area. Glenn Patton, director of the University's six-county Bootheel extension area, served as acting Head Start director until Greenfield began work this week.

Motel owner arrested

Police Thursday arrested Art Garner, owner of the Rail Haven motel for allegedly displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon after he allegedly threatened to shoot a customer early Thursday morning.

Thomas Boyd of Chicago told police that Garner pointed a .22-caliber rifle at him and threatened to shoot when Boyd went to complain about a dog being in his room.

Boyd told police that he left his room about 1 a.m. Thursday and, when he returned at 3 a.m., he found a dog in the room. When he went to talk to Garner about it, he claims Garner pulled the rifle from under the counter and pointed it at him.

He claims Garner said he had shot a man before and he was going to shoot another. Boyd fled the motel and called police.

Garner, who is facing charges in the shooting of an Independence man on Feb. 9, was released on $2,000 bond.

Joseph O'Grosky, the man who was shot, was not seriously injured.

Police also announced the arrest of Allyn M. Stout Jr., 411 Fletcher, for not having a city sticker.

Sikeston woman critical; horses smashed her car

PERU, Ill. — Nadean Dickerson, manager of Delta Motel on Highway 61 North in Sikeston, Mo. is in critical condition in the intensive care ward of St. Francis Hospital in Peoria, following a freak accident early Wednesday morning.

According to Chester Oldham of 219 W. Gladys in Sikeston, he and his cousin, Mrs. Dickerson were traveling to Ottawa, Ill when they stopped about 3:15 a.m. about four miles south of Peru to get a breath of fresh air. While they were out of the car, they saw two flashing lights and got back into the car. An officer of the substation of the state police in Peru, Ill. said that the flashing lights were probably the lights at the intersection of Illinois 71 and U.S. 51, which is about one mile south of where the accident happened.

Oldham, driver of the car which belonged to Mrs. Dickerson, said he felt something bad was going to happen as he began driving down the highway. The state police said that he was northbound on U.S. 51 about 1.5 miles south of Ill. 71.

Suddenly a small herd of Palomino and Buckskin horses stampeded the car, head-on, and from both sides, Oldham said, demolishing the car. The accident report of the state police said there were about 12 horses.

The state police said the horses were being boarded by Lewis Gregorich of Rural Route Oblesby, Ill. The report said evidently the horses got out of the field and onto the roadway. The report named the horse owners as Don Garner of La Salle, Ill., Rick Vecchi of Oglesby, Ill. and Denis Green of Princeton, Ill.

Oldham and Mrs. Dickerson were taken to a hospital in Peru. Oldham received a whiplash and left shoulder injury. Mrs. Dickerson was transferred by helicopter to the Peoria hospital. She suffered serious face and head cuts, badly cut hand, and fractured skull and jaw.

Oldham said one of the horses was killed in the accident, and three others received broken legs and had to be killed.

Mrs. Dickerson is the sister of Pauline Harrison and Corrine Hufstedler of Sikeston.

Spainhower cites interest earnings

Approximately 100 bankers, businessmen and county and city officials attended a dinner for State Treasurer James I. Spainhower Thursday night at Ramada Inn.

In a short speech, Spainhower said that when former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes left office in January, he left Missouri in good financial condition with a surplus of around $30 million.

He said Gov. Christopher (Kit) Bond inherited the office in good shape and has introduced a budget that would leave the state a balance of $20 to $30 million.

Since taking over the treasurers office, Spainhower said he has taken steps to get the fullest benefit from the state's money by closing one non- interest bearing bank account and transferring the money to a different bank where it will draw interest.

He also said he has cut the balance in the state's main checking accounts by keeping them lower than $3 million in cash revenue and placing the rest of the money in interest- bearing treasury bills.

Spainhower said a figure couldn't be placed on the amount of taxpayer money that had been gained by interest- bearing accounts because of the fluctuation of state funds. However, he believes that prudent investment of the funds can earn thousands of additional dollars with taxpayers' money.

He also estimated that $10 to $12 million in interest will be received by the end of 1973.

Spainhower said over 400 banks throughout Missouri handle state deposits in three types of bank accounts:

(1) demand checking account, handled by three banks located in Jefferson City, St. Louis and Kansas City with a daily balance of $20 million; (2) collection accounts, over 200 different banks throughout the state handle these accounts for payments in the areas where they are located; (3) time deposit accounts, the only accounts that draw interest and handled by over 300 banks.

He previously served as president of the Associated Medical Schools of Missouri, composed of the medical schools of St. Louis University and Washington University in St. Louis and the colleges of osteopathic medicine in Kirksville and Kansas City.

During the 1971- 72 school year, he was a part-time professor of political science at Lincoln University in Jefferson City.

An ordained minister of the Christian Church, he is a member of the denomination's Board of Higher Education and is chairman of the Division of Legislative Affairs of the Missouri Council of Churches.

From 1963 through 1970, Spainhower was the state representative in the Missouri Legislature from Saline County and served the last four years as chairman of the House Education Committee and as a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

In 1963, he was given the Meritorious Service Award by the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. In 1970, the Saline County Young Democrats Club honored him with its Harry S. Truman award for outstanding civic and political work.

Other awards received by Spainhower include the 1967 Mental Health award from the Missouri Association for Mental Health and the 1968 Missouri Lay Educator Award by the Missouri Chapter of the Phi Delta Kappa. He formerly served as president of the board of the Woodhaven Learning Center for Retarded Children in Columbia.

From 1958 to 1964, Spainhower was minister of the First Christian Church in Marshall and, from 1964 to 1970, was minister of Christian Churches at Mendon and Bosworth.

His educational training includes a bachelor of arts degree for Phillips University in Enid, Okla., bachelor of divinity degree from a theological seminary at Lexington, Ky., and master of arts and Doctor of philosophy degrees in political science from University of Missouri—Columbia. In 1967, Phillips University conferred an honorary doctor of laws degree upon him.

PROUD TO BE AN AMERICAN

Not only is it a great thrill to see our POW's -- and some MIA's -- returning from the hell-holes of communist tyrants; it is even a greater thrill to see that in spite of all they have suffered in long, lonely years of imprisonment, our men never once lost faith in America. The most often repeated declaration of the returning POW's is: "God Bless America!" And what a contrast are their words, when compared to the snears and jeers of the hate - America crowd.

We can be proud of our men in uniform; and, by their example, we can be proud and grateful that we are privileged to be Americans.

BUSINESS MEN ON THE NIGHT SHIFT

Any business man worth his salt works long hours — extra hours; he has to, to keep his job — to keep his company's head above water in the rough sea of competition. And he works even longer, these days, to battle the extra competition from the low - labor - cost countries aboard.

But take a look at the names of Trustees and Directors and just plain volunteer workers of your local hospitals, colleges, charities — the same business men (and women) on longer hours. Because, without them and their skills these hospitals, school, charities would inevitably fail.

So, when anti- business politicians and power - seekers attack business, they are actually attacking the jobs these business men create and the extra- hour activities they manage and support.

Everything about a newspaper is consumer-oriented.

That's why both men and women consumers read newspapers more regularly and carefully than anything else.

That's because newspapers are the FULL information medium -- and can be read and re-read at the convenience of the consumers.

More information on consumer matters is being published in newspapers today than at any time in our nation's history.

Editorial writers, reporters, columnists and special feature pages and articles comment regularly on consumer issues.

Advertisements provide facts and information to help them shop better, save money, use time wisely, and live better year after year.

Classified advertising helps consumers in many important ways, assisting in such major events in an average person's lifetime as helping find a job, a home, and a car.

Our economy and standard of living are dependent in a great degree on good productive advertising, as carried by this and thousands of other newspapers.

Perhaps it is time to applaud the many good merchants and advertisers who have been helping consumers in this area live better year after year with their informative newspaper advertising.

NEW YORK (AP) — The phone rang one evening not long ago and a woman informed me that our daughter, Alison, had been accepted at the Bank Street School.

My wife, Stephanie, who was taking a bath when the phone rang, sprang from the tub, a broad grin sweeping across her face.

Our daughter, age 2, had made it. She had been accepted at nursery school. Her future was assured.

For those of you around the country who take getting into nursery school lightly, be forwarned. There are few nursery schools here and they are very fussy.

A good friend of my wife's tells of being on the delivery table. The obstetrician strikes her newborn son on the rear. Then smiling, the doctor turns to the groggy mother. He says:

"If you need to get him into nursery school, remember I'm on the board of directors of ... — the school shall remain nameless.

As Alison approached the age of 2, my wife more and more frequently brought up the subject of nursery schools.

Soon it became a major topic of conversation among friends who also had 2-year-olds since applications for admission to schools at age 3 had to be made about a year in advance.

Brochures began appearing around the house. "Montessori concept," "open classrooms," "structured but liberal," "unstrctured but classical."

I took it all fairly lightly until one day when Stephanie, a television editor, attacked my seeming lack of enthusiasm.

She explained in rather loud and explosive terms how if Alison couldn't get get into nursery school our daughter's entire life might be ruined. She went on to relate how Alison might never be able to do such things like follow in her mother's footsteps at the University of Michigan ... and the Michigan Daily etc ...

As we—actually my wife—began mailing out applications, the conversations with our friends took on a note of panic.

Each application was accompanied by an application fee. The lowest was $15, the most $25. But the application fees assure nothing.

Well, somehow, Alison got in to a really good one. Now we just have to find a way to pay for it.

Luckily for us, for the first year she'll only be going four afternoons a week. That will cost us about $1,350 for the year plus another $250 for transportation.

A few nights ago I was looking over the Bank Street brochure and started figuring.

At present prices when Alison is 4 it will cost about $2,000 a year for five mornings a week. If she stays in the school for first grade figure about $2,500. That means it will cost about $20,000 by the time she's through the seventh grade.

I stared at the figures for a minute, then I looked up at my wife.

"To hell with the Michigan Daily," I said.

We're sorry Governor Bond did not name a lot of honorary colonels. Of course, this would have cost those colonels several hundred dollars for uniforms, an oil painting of Mrs. Bond, and other things the colonels are always called upon to do. However, the average person named to the Governor's staff likes to remember the honor, and if he could not afford the cost he could have declined the appointment. It is among our happy recollections that we served on the staffs of Phil Dannelly, Jim Blair and John Dalton. Handing in our closet is the dress uniform which cost quite a bit, but we wore it with pride when we marched in the inaugural parades.

Stay Out of Civil Wars

The Vietnam War apparently is ended for a time at least. Americans are grateful for that, while at the same time deeply regretting that we ever got into it, with all the resultant deaths and suffering by our men and our allies.

If we have learned nothing else from that conflict, it should be that we have no business throwing our military might into a civil war in any nation, especially one as far away as Southeast Asia.

The struggle in Vietnam was nothing more than a war between two sections of the nation about what ideology would prevail - communism that would dictate to both North and South Vietnamese, or the right of self-determination.

During our years there, we often thought about how our forefathers would have felt if during our own sectional struggle, the Civil War, some powerful nation like Great Britian, had taken sides and thrown a half million of its men into our country for either side.

It is certain that we would have felt it was none of their business and we would not have liked it.

SPACE SCIENCE HELPS
EARTHLINGS SUPPLY
UTILITIES

Two fuel cells from other space have come to earth in Brooklyn, where they are chemically transforming natural gas into electricity, quietly and efficiently.

The cells, recently installed as a test in a New York home, were developed jointly during the past five years by Pratt & Whitney Division of United Aircraft Corp., and 33 natural gas companies as a part of a $50 million research program which stretches from coast to coast. One of the sponsoring companies is Brooklyn Union Gas, which is conducting tests in New York City. The fuel cells are modifications of the powerplants which provided electricity for the Apollo moon flights.

The natural gas fuel Cell, an on- site electric generator, consists of two units: one contains a reformer that breaks down natural gas into hydrogen and carbon molecules and converts the carbon into carbon dioxide and the other is the fuel cell itself, which generates electricity electrochemically when the gas mixture enters. The second unit converts the resulting direct current to alternating current.

Natural gas fuel cells could mean lower fuel costs since they convert 40 per cent of gas energy into power and operate one- third more efficiently than a typical central power station, according to Gordon C. Griswold, president of Brooklyn Union Gas.

During the latter half of 1971 and through 1972 up to 60 additional Powercells are scheduled for installation by various gas and pipeline companies at 37 locations in 19 states and the District of Columbia.

A TESTIMONIAL TO MULTIPLE USE

More than 25 years ago, a major timber company offered to trade some of its land in the state of Minnesota for other government- owned lands. The proposed exchange was opposed on the grounds that the timber company lands were undesirable for a recreation area. Now, after the company has conducted a multiple- use forest management for 20 years, including the harvesting of over 130,000 cords of pulpwood, the area is sought as the most desirable location in the entire state of Minnesota for the proposed new Voyageur National Park.

This bit of irony came to light during the testimony of a timber company official before a congressional subcommittee as to whether 51,000 acres of the company's timberlands are to be taken for the park. A company spokesman said, "The issue is not one of 'preservation versus destruction'...Instead it is one of 'preservation' compared to 'multiple- use management'...the latter offers much more in terms of protection, recreation opportunities and economic benefits at far less cost."

The official pointed out the importance of these timberlands to the region. They provide wood fiber requirements for mills at International Falls, Minnesota and in Canada. He added, "The International Falls mills support an annual payroll of nearly $20 million and full and part- time employment for up to 3,600 persons... "Government already owns and controls vast tracts of Minnesota forests. The timber company spokesman urged that a portion of the area already in government ownership be set aside as a national park. He stressed that his company favored a national park for Minnesota, but opposed the additional removal from private ownership of timberlands that have been dedicated for years to perpetual- yield forestry.

In this case, the argument for a national park to save irreplaceable scenic beauty fails to stand up. The scenic beauty was not apparent to the conservationists until after more than two decades of intensive forest management by a private company. It would be hard to find a stronger testimonial than this to the validity of the multiple- use principle.

FOLLOWING FALSE
STANDARDS

Beneath the murky waters of Latin American politics, there is an undercurrent of violent totalitarianism based on terrorism that bodes ill for any peace- loving country- including the United States. With the turmoil of Chile fresh in mind, it is revealing to read a piece entitled "Terror for Export" in the September 7, 1970 issue of Barron's, National Business and Financial Weekly. It shows how working from Cuba, the terrorists are spreading all through Latin America. And significantly, countries with welfare- state type governments have become the scenes of most active terrorism and repression.

In telling of the situation in Uruguay, for instance, Barron's quotes an authority who says, "Not much more than one third of the population is actively gainful, an exceptionally low percentage. And of those earning a living, about two fifths are directly or indirectly on the payrolls of the government and its affiliates. The number of pensioners is one third that of all wage earners, and the number of unemployed is not much below that of all pensioners...Uruguayan society has contrived for itself a womb- to- tomb welfare system which the nation (an economy based on beef and wool) cannot possibly afford."

Uruguay is now in the grip of paralyzing strikes, rampant inflation, as well as organized kidnapping and murder by communist- oriented terrorists. Liberals in the United States who blind themselves to oppressive union organizing tactics that undermine the most basic individual right of all-- the right to work-- and who pursue policies and measures of welfarism, without regard to the financial integrity of the nation, have but to look to the South-- to Latin America-- to perceive the false standards they are following to the detriment of our country.

A DESTRUCTIVE
CONCEPT

Many believe we have entered an era in which business and government must cooperate with each other to an unprecedented degree in solving current social and economic problems if the fabric of a self- governing society is to be preserved. Considerable evidence is visible of the strength of this belief among many business and government leaders. In education, expansion of equal employment opportunities, urban renewal, conservation and environmental problems, the cooperation of private citizens, and government has become of transcendental importance.

In one area, however, citizen- industry cooperation is having tough sledding. That area is in the field of consumer protection. Here, the extremists seem bent on creating an unbridgeable gap of hostility between consumers, government and industry. A prime example of their efforts is the proposed class action legislation under which consumers could band together and launch unrestricted legal actions against virtually any producer, manufcaturer or distributor in the country allegedly guilty of any one of a limitless range of fraudulent or deceptive practices. Damages could run into the millions, and litigation in each case would go on for years, penalizing both consumers and companies involved. Instead of working toward voluntary and reasonable solution of consumer- industry questions, class action laws would create a state of chronic warfare in the marketplace.

If this kind of legislation is permitted to undermine mutual trust and confidence between private citizens and government in the area of consumer protection, how long before the process will wreak havoc in other areas such as environment, conservation, city rebuilding and so on? Where cooperative citizen-government action is essential, the destructive impact of the philosophy behind the class action legislation would be so great as to be incalculable. To protect the consumer, we already have laws against fraud and misrepresentation.

SOCIALIZED MEDICINE?

In the new term of Congress just begun, both Democrats and Republicans are expected to offer legislative proposals for massive government- supported medical care. Many citizens might be tempted to support such programs, but in the long run they would do much more harm than good.

Doctor and hospital bills have risen rapidly in recent years, primarily because of government Medicare and Medicaid programs, which virtually guarantee payment. In the past many doctors and hospitals would base their fees on ability to pay, with the poorest people receiving free care. Now medical bills are high for everyone. Some Medicare patients find their medical bills almost twice as high as in the past, with the government paying half and the patient paying the rest.

In the words of Dr. Sidney Garfield, founder of the Kaiser-Permanent prepaid group medical plan: "Picture what would happen to air transportation if fares were eliminated and travel became a right. What chance would you have of getting anyplace if you really needed to?...The change from fee to free would disrupt any system, no matter how well organized, and this is particularly true of medicine, with its highly personalized sick- care service."

The normally statist Brookings Institution put it this way: "Financing [free medical care for most citizens] would require large tax increases that would be devoted not toward accomplishing objectives attainable only in the public sector, but toward substituting public outlays for private outlays that would have been undertaken in any event." Socialized medicine would create far more problems that it would solve. HLH

$Billion Overpayment:
New National Welfare Roll Sampling Reveals Heavy Illegal Outflow of Money

By Victor Riesel

WASHINGTON-- It may be reverse elitism to decry those who shuttle between the intellectual centers of Harvard, Oxford and Swiss cultural centers-- and who are the first to cry out against "welfare cuts."

But those theorists who shout down efforts to end the fraud and violence and terror by marauding bands in what now have become permanent welfare neighborhoods are ivory- towerists. They are divorced from realism. They have not been into the big cities' new flatlands where rot has leveled buildings for so many streets it all seems like 1946 Berlin.

There is money to rebuild these inner precincts. There is almost a billion dollars, it has just been discovered, actually spent annually by the federal government, the states and municipalities in welfare overpayments. Or to ineligibles.

This has been discovered by new sophisticated quality control systems, HEW Secretary Caspar (Cap) Weinberger tells me. One of his technical colleagues calls it the first good feedback from states in years. He refers to the huge figure of overpayments and illegal payments as the 1974- fiscal year projection--- a "national subsample."

The actual cost to the federal government from this sheer waste and stolen moneys comes to $456 million in the fiscal year starting this July 1.

The government HEW Social and Rehabilitation Service pays half the welfare cost. Thus the total annual outpouring---when added to what the state and local units pay--- comes to $912 million.

Half the "error" is made by case workers. Half by "misrepresentation," mostly by parents in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) category. There are some 3 million such families on the rolls.

These huge funds which could provide the schools, the low- rent housing projects, the child care centers, the family rehabilitation, the lifting of Dostoyevskian families from the muck-- which must be seen to be believed--- don't include actual fraud.

The near- billion dollars don't relate to the "lost check" schemes, the raiding of welfare centers, sometimes at knife and gun point, in search of "emergency" payments, or the looting of Medicaide funds by physicians, dentists, pharmacists and other "venders."

Positively there is no reflection here on aid to the needy, the infirm, the aging, the handicapped or the truly desperate families-- three quarters of which are children. There is no reflection here on the honest, sleepless, selfless doctors who work the slums. But there is a cry here for realism. End the rackets which steal from the poor.

Cap Weinberger, one of the White House's super Cabinet men charged with protecting human resources, has told me he has discovered fantastic overpayments "which vary...20 per cent is considered the national illegal payment rate. No one disagrees. Thus the figures are enormous."

Weinberger says that in some states the overpayments run to 30 per cent. One of his colleagues talked of a 42 per cent rate of overpayments to AFCD families in one three-month period sampled in California. There they use computers in an "Earnings Clearing System." This is a double- check technique, matching reports from an employed welfare (AFDC) recipient with unemployment compensation records filed by the welfare client's employer. There was an overcost of $1.8 million in the 90 days.

The national subsample obtained by HEW's new quality control system supports the 20 per cent overpayment report.

This feedback discloses "there is some degree of error in about 25 per cent of the cases across the country"--- and there are 15.1 million persons on welfare.

To zero in on the wastage: there is a 13 per cent rate of overpayments and a 6.8 per cent rate of ineligibles in the AFDC category.

"We are now developing changes in regulations," said Weinberger when we talked the other day. "We have put them out to the states and cities to get comments. We are trying to develop quality figures so states can move in more rapidly on the errors or fraud, call it what you wish--- means to avoid overpayments and payments to ineligibles. "We are now developing changes in regulations," said Weinberger when we talked the other day. "We have put them out to the states and cities to get comments. We are trying to develop quality figures so states can move in more rapidly on the errors or fraud, call it what you wish--- means to avoid overpayments and payments to ineligibles.

"We are moving in the direction of a flat grant instead of a test which demeans the welfare client-- the questioning on family budget, do you really need a telephone, or what about that extra medicine or transportation? Flat grants will prevent demeaning the client. And it would cut into the heavy administration cost."

This, adds Weinberger, is an attempt to set priorities so the most urgently desperate and needy get what is justly theirs. And what they need and what is stolen from them truly cannot be learned even by those of the ivy halls of Cambridge or Oxford-- even on those long jet flights.

Corruption Crackdown in Chicago:
A Tale of Presidential Vengeance

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--- President Nixon personally ordered the federal crackdown on corruption in Chicago as an act of political vengeance.

After he lost the close 1960 election, Republicans brought him enough evidence of vote fraud in Chicago to convince him that he could have edged out John F. Kennedy for Illinois' crucial electoral votes.

They urged him to challenge the election, which would have tied it up in a nasty court battle. Nixon refused, saying he would not be a party to a constitutional crisis. But he never forgot that Mayor Richard Daley's political machine had helped deny him the presidency in 1960.

When he finally reached the White House eight years later, he let the Justice Department know that he wanted to clean up Chicago. A high- powered strike force and a squad of Washington- based tax agents were dispatched to Chicago to put the Daley machine under a federal microscope.

Their work has already brought one celebrated conviction. Federal Judge Otto Kerner, formerly governor of Illinois and a kingpin in the Daley machine, was found guilty on 17 counts of conspiracy, fraud, bribery and income tax evasion.

The President got the news while he was flying aboard Air Force One. He was so elated that he directed presidential aide John Ehrlichman to phone his congratulations to prosecutor James Thompson.

Footnote: The aggressive Thompson, as district attorney for northern Illinois, has some other Daley cronies on the ropes. Edward Barrett, the Cook County clerk, is on trial for bribery, income tax evasion and mail fraud. An investigation into the Cook County Assessor's office is expected to lead to still more indictments. Mayor Daley, himself, is likely to escape criminal charges. But he has been embarrassed by disclosures that his sons have been receiving city insurance and legal business.

Black September
Story

The Central Intelligence Agency has put together some fascinating facts about the Black September terrorists, which may explain why they stormed into the Saudi Arabian embassy in Khartoum to commit their latest atrocity.

Apparently, the terrorists hoped to shock the world and embarrass the Saudis in the process by taking over their embassy and executing three of their distinguished guests, including U.S. Ambassador Cleo Noel, Jr. Here is the background from secret CIA reports, which have been shown to us:

The Black September movement, named for the month of September, 1970, when King Hussein started his successful drive to crush the Palestinians in Jordan, began as the terrorist arm of al- Fatah. This is the largest of the Palestinian fedayeen, or guerrilla, groups.

A few hundred hardened, embittered fedayeen were recruited whose main mission was to "get" King Hussein. Originally, claims a secret CIA report, "Fatah's assassination plans (were) aimed solely at Jordanian ministers, Army officers and members of the Royal Hashemite family. It (was) planned to execute these individuals wherever they may be found abroad, in Arab countries, Europe or America."

The Black September terrorists struck first at Wafsi Tell, the late Jordanian premier, who was gunned down in Cairo in November 1971. This happened at a time when Saudi Arabia's King Faisal was trying to negotiate an accord between Jordan and al- Fatah. The king was worried, according to a secret report, "about the complete takeover of fedayeen leadership by radical extremists." He saw this as the "tragic inevitable outcome if Jordan continued to exclude the fedayeen wholly from any separate existence."

King Hussein, however, had intelligence reports of al- Fatah's involvement in the Black September attack upon Wafsi Tell. These reports "indicated the King and his family were equally targets of Fatah assassin plans."

He asked King Faisal to send a representative to Jordan "to be informed in detail of the evidence of Fatah's involvement." Faisal countered by inviting Hussein to send a representative to Saudi Arabia. Jordanian Ambassador Shanquiti was immediately dispatched to Riyadh to present the evidence to Faisal.

The fedayeen, meanwhile, had been filling Faisal with stories of Jordanian brutality against al- Fatah. They charged, for instance, that the moderate al- Fatah leader al-Abu Ayyad "had been cruelly beaten and then killed. The stick which he usually carried was now a trophy in Hussein's palace."

For a time, King Faisal didn't know whom to believe, but he increasingly became convinced that al- Fatah had been taken over by radicals. In the end, Faisal wound up in Hussein's corner. This is the reason, according to the CIA, that the Black September terrorists have now turned against the Saudis.

Teacher, students hear scientist

W. W. Wilkison, a Sikeston High School teacher, and six students who excel in science were among 150 outstanding science students and teachers from throughout Southeast Missouri who heard Bell Telephone Laboratories scientist Dr. Tom Sheahen discuss the responsibilities of science Thursday at the Ramada Inn.

Dr. Sheahen, a member of the interconnection technology laboratory at Bell Labs, of New Jersy, made the presentation by videotape. He is an expert in data analysis from space exploration.

In addition to hearing Dr. Sheahen, visiting students and teachers placed calls over the first working Picturephones ever to be installed in Southeast Missouri. Picturephones transmitted the caller's image as well as voice similar to the reception of a television picture.

The meeting was Southwestern Bell's first Science Recognition Day to be held in Southeast Missouri. The Day commemorated the March birthday of Alexander Graham Bell. The meeting began at 9 a.m. with Dr. Sheahen's videotaped presentation beginning at 9:45 a.m.

Southeast Missouri schools participating in the day-long event were: Sikeston High, Cape Girardeau High School, Notre Dame Regional High, College High and Vocational Technical School, Leopold, Patton, Poplar Bluff, Delta, Jackson, Oak Ridge, Cardwell, Campbell, Malden, Clarkton, Charleston, East Prairie, Parma, Caruthersville, Deering, Wardell, Benton, Chaffee, Oran, Sikeston, Advance, Bell City, Dexter, Bismarck, Farmington and Leadwood.

As a Bell Labs scientsit, Dr. Sheahen has been involved in a series of experiments on board space vehicles to study the upper atmosphere. He is presently working on new telephone switching systems.

Dr. Sheahen is a member of the American Phyisical Society and holds a Doctor's degree in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Other features of the science seminar were: A computer time sharing demonstration; A laser-holography demonsration (holograms are three-dimensional photographs taken by laser light); and a film commemorating the 25th Anniversary of the invention of the transistor by Bell Labs.

Southwestern Bell sponsored Science Recognition Day to encourage students to continue their education beyond high school and to stimulate their interests in engineering and the sciences.

Man hurt

Dewey Phillips, 51, Sikeston, was injured yesterday afternoon while working at Scott County Milling Company. Apparently Phillips was loading or unloading a boxcar at the company and fell, fracturing his arm and causing a possible fractured pelvis.

He is listed in fair condition at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

BALTIMORE OPERA AUDITIONS YOUNG

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Opera Company is holding auditions for young singers, 20 to 32, with prize award auditions to be held May 17.

Five awards, from $1,500 to $500, will be given and winners are to use the money to further voice training, learn operatic roles, develop dramatic ability and/or perfect foreign languages. The money must be used within the United States.

More pressure to release U.S. POWs

SAIGON (AP) — The United States put more implied pressure on the Communists today to release another 140 or so American prisoners of war by next Tuesday.

Brig. Gen. John A. Wickham Jr., deputy U.S. representative on the Vietnamese-American Joint Military Commission, told the commission that nearly 74 per cent of the American and allied foreign forces in Vietnam at the time of the cease-fire Jan. 28 have been withdrawn in compliance with the peace agreement.

Wickham said the United States has pulled 15,747 troops, South Korea and other foreign allies have removed 27,490, and a total of 15,795, including 7,769 Americans, remain to be withdrawn by March 28.

A U.S. spokesman said Wckham presented the figures as a "matter of record" and did not draw any conclusion. But the spokesman added that the United States "seeks to realiee the release of American prisoners of war as quickly as we reach different phase lines."

The cease-fire agreement stipulates that American prisoners will be released at the same rate that U.S. and other foreign allied troops are withdrawn from Vietnam. The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have released a little more than half of the 585 American prisoners they held at the start of the cease-fire.

The South Vietnamese released another 997 Communist prisoners of war today in Quang Tri Province below the demilitarized zone.

A sokesman for the Saigon command said three of the North Vietnamese refused repatriation and were granted asylum in the south.

The South Vietnamese government sent a protest letter to the International Commission of Control and Supervision charging that Communist forces intensified attacks in violation of the cease-fire during the past two days.

The Saigon command reported 124 more violations during the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, with 135 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong and 50 South Vietnamese killed, 339 South Vietnamese wounded and 21 missing.

8 treated

Eight accident patients were treated Thursday in the emergency room of Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Gloria Mayfield, 5, Sikeston, fractured left arm in car door; David Shell, 14, Sikeston, bruised and sprained left knee at school; Eric Pierce, 20, Charleston, injured at work; and Dewey Phillips, 51, Sikeston, fractured pelvis at work.

Edward L. Miller, formerly of Withita, Kas., has been transferred to Sikeston to be manager of the local Western Union office. The Miller family will make their home at 510 Coleman street.

Pvt. Darrel Gregory of Parma, is now stationed at Camp Polk, La. He entered the army on December 10.

Now managing the Goodyear Service Store in Sikeston is William S. West, who has been employed by Goodyear in the St. Louis district for the past year.

Don Bohannon was the long Bulldog to place on the first 10 of the "A" squad of the Southeast Missouri all-star selection, which was dominated by five players from Cape.

KASU receives grant

JONESBORO— KASU, the non-commercial, educational public radio station licensed to Arkansas State University, has been awarded a $68,696 federal grant for expansion, Charles Rasberry, director of broadcasting at Arkansas State, has announced.

The expansion will include relocating the tower and transmitter, increasing the tower height and installing a larger antenna and transmitter, resulting in an increase of KASU's radiated power from 4,500 watts to 10,000 watts.

Rasberry said the federal grant will result in KASU reaching into Southern Missouri and western Tennessee as well as eastern and north central Arkansas. "Upon completion of the project, we will increase our broadcast day from 15 hours to 18 hours a day, year round, and will commence broadcasting in stereo.

Rasberry said the station will also add expanded programming aimed at the agricultural interests of the area, in cooperation with the College of Agriculture.

KASU broadcasts cultural educational and informational programming as well as programs of music, news and sports. The expansion project will cost a total of $91,595 and the grant will cover 75 per cent of the total cost.

Grassfires reported

Firemen were called to two grassfires Thursday, both caused by burning trash.

They were called at 12:16 p.m. to the Theodore Williams property at 335 Compress Road and at 2:38 p.m. to the Kenneth Scheeter property at 410 Carroll.

Prayer for today

from the Upper Room

"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim release to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord. (Luke 4:18-19, RSV) PRAYER: God, help me to share myself with those oppressed so that together we may find the key that unlocks their chains and sets them free to live as You would have them live. Amen.

What's the law?

The case of the romantic pursuit

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Alvin made his job as a bill collector more of a "pursuit" than an occupation. Amorously inclined, he cornered adorable Dora in her apartment and offered to forget about the money she owed in exchange for a romantic interlude. Dora, however, wasn't that kind of a girl and flatly turned down the offer. Whereupon, agile Alvin began to pursue the screaming girl around the apartment with outstretched but unfulfilled arms. The chase ended, however, after only a few minutes when Dora tripped and fell. Badly hurt, she sued Alvin's employer for her injuries.

"A bill collector is supposed to collect money," she told the judge, "and not kisses. As Alvin's employer, he should be held responsible for his employee's conduct."

"Why?" responded the employer. "I didn't hire Alvin to be a delinquent with delinquent customers. When he started chasing Dora, he wasn't working for me. He was on his own."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you hold the employer responsible for Alvin's romantic pursuit?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while an employer can be held liable for the actions of an employee when performed during the course of his employment, or for the employer's benefit, Alvin's pursuit of Dora was definitely not within the scope of his employment, nor was it for the benefit of his employer. Consequently, concluded the judge, his employer could not be held responsible for his amorous overtures.

400 view fashions

Approximately 400 persons attended the eighth annual Coalesce Club fashion show- card party Monday night at Ramada Inn. The theme of the show was "Spring Into Spring". The clothes modeled consisted of everything from sportswear and swimwear to evening wear and capes. Club members sold tickets to latecomers for standing room only. The models paraded down three walks so that all could see the garments.

Mrs. William Crowell, 112 Autumn Drive, was the winner of a dinner for eight to be cooked by Cherie Blanton, using recipes from her cookbook, "A Little Fur In the Meringue Never Really Hurt the Filling."

Proceeds from the show will go to various charitable organizations of Sikeston.

Craft fair set in Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The third regional craft fair exhibit, sponsored by The Christian Arts Council of Cape Girardeau, will be held at the Arena Building April 14 from 1 to 9 p.m. and Apr. 15 from 1 to 6 p.m.

Area craftsmen are invited to participate and demonstrate- exhibit their work. There will be no entry fee.

Pre-registration is required by April 1. Mail entry blanks to: The Christian Arts Council, P. O. Box 606, Cape Girardeau, Mo.63701. Registration blanks may be obtained at public and private schools, libraries, banks and savings institutions in Cape Girardeau and Jackson and at special places designated in cities throughout the 17-county area served by The Christian Arts Council.

Questions maybe referred to Caroll Snead, General Chairman, 1435 Rose, Cape Girardeau, Mo. 63701. Dr. Dan Cotner is chairman of demonstrations and Otto Dingeldein is president of the council.

The purpose of the Craft Fair Exhibit is to promote and assist area craftsmen and to generate an interest in other persons to develop a craft and discover the joy of creating something beatuiful from raw material.

Last year over 220 craftsmen took part in the event which was attended by over 5,000 persons. The 1973 exhibit is expected to attract even more persons, and the Council reports early registry of several new and unique crafts. Inquiries are being made by buyers who are contemplating placing orders for craft work.

The craft fair is open to craftsmen in Southeast Missouri, Southern Illinois and adjoining counties in other states. Group exhibits by craftsmen working jointly in a craft such as a school or club are encouraged.

Exhibits must be in place by 11 a.m. April 14 and remain intact until the show closes Sunday at 6 p.m. Orders may be taken during the show and sales made after the fair closes.

Annual Show Set

CHARLESTON— The Junior Study Club will present its 25th annual spring show March 15 and 16. "The Pleasure of Your Company" is this year's offering, featuring favorite numbers from previous shows and new numbers added for spice.

All proceeds from the show go toward maintenance of the Scout Cabin in Rolwing Park.

Tickets may be obtained from any club member in advance. Some tickets will be available at the door. Reserved seats are also available. For further ticket information, phone Mrs. William Brewer at 683-6333.

WE FORGET OFTENEST TO CHECK BATTERY

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — A national survey of car owners shows that the preventive maintenance service they most often overlook is a check of their battery's cables and post connections, says W.E. MacDonald, technical services manager for Marathon Oil Co. Thus neglect, he says, is responsible for a large share of winter starting problems.

Ann Landers

Firemen's infidelity rate 80 per cent?

Dear Ann Landers: You stated in a recent column that your mission is to comfort the afflicted and afflict the comfortable. May I help?

Attention, Working Wives: Does your husband work a different shift? If so, you could be in for some trouble. Take firemen, for example. They often do 24 hours of duty, and then they are off for 48 hours. If their wives work, these men have a great deal of time alone. They are not likely to busy themselves about the house. They frequently seek other entertainment--- often women. The infidelity rate among firemen runs about 80 per cent.

Don't say, "Not my husband. He's not the type." You never know what type he is until it's too late.

My advice: Stay home with your fireman- husband. Turn off the TV. Neck for a few hours, like you did when you were dating. It can bring back memories and be great fun.

Have I made someone uncomfortable? Good! I meant to.--- Midwest Authority

Dear Authority: I don't know where you got that 80 per cent unfaithful figure among firemen. I doubt that their infidelity rate is any higher than that of doctors, lawyers, paperhangers or siding salesmen.

As for necking for a few hours-- well, if you want to, why not? But if my memory serves me, necking was a holding action for unmarried couples who didn't believe in going all the way. Or am I dating myself?

Dear Ann Landers: I am a young mother 22 years of age and have been married twice and given birth to two children. My first child is a healthy four- year- old. My second child died several months after birth.

When people ask me if I have children I always say, "Yes." Then they want to know how many and their ages. This question makes me uncomfortable because I am forced to talk about something I would rather not go into.

If I answer "I have only one child," I feel I am being disrespectful to the baby I lost.

Please tell me how to handle this problem.--- Depressed In Nashville

Dear D.:: The best way to sidestep a topic that depresses you and at the same time avoid the guilt that might result if you don't mention the baby you lost is this: When asked how many children you have, simply say, "I have a four-year- old. Our second baby died several years ago."

Dear Ann Landers: Me--- writing to you. What a laugh. But since you don't know me or the young lady, you're a perfect choice.

The problem is complicated. Feelings are involved. Why would a beautifully groomed, attractive young woman walk around with a dirty neck? I keep wondering if anyone else notices it. I don't see how they could miss. I think she realizes it and attempts to cover it up by wearing a lot of junky chains and other heavy jewelry.

If you are going to suggest that I come right out and tell her (the typical Ann Landers approach) can you supply me with the proper words; I can't just say, "Honey, your neck is dirty." Thanks, Annie.--- Tongue- Tied In Tahoe

Dear T.T.: Untie your tongue in Tahoe and try this: "Honey, I'll bet you don't know that your jewelry is discoloring your neck. Let me buy you some jewelry cleaner and we'll check your neck in a day or two and I'll bet there's a whale of a difference."

Can drugs be a friend in time of stress? If you keep your head together can they be of help? Ann Landers' new booklet, "Straight Dope on Drugs" separates the fact from the fiction. Get it today. For each booklet ordered send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (16c postage) to Ann Landers, Box 3346, Chicago, Ill. 60654.

Diabetics need understanding

SAN FRANCISCO — "When a patient learns that he has diabetes, a reactive depression of variable degree is almost inevitable," Dr. Maurice Martin of Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., reported at a medical symposium on diabetes.

Many patients find it hard to believe or accept the diagnosis, the physician said. Some refuse to accept the fact that they must alter their life style.

In a discussion of depression and diabetes at the symposium, as reported in "Diabetology '72", published by Geigy Pharmaceuticals for physicians, Dr. Martin called for understanding and counseling of patient by the physician and, if the patient is a youngster, of the parents as well. Parents often have guilt feelings when they learn their child is diabetic and that the disease is hereditary, he explained.

It is estimated that one of every 50 persons in the United States is afflicted by diabetes. One out of every 100 is diagnosed.

High blood pressure must be controlled

HOUSTON, Tex. — The need for early detection of men and women with high blood pressure and for them "clearly to understand the importance of controlling their condition," was stressed Feb. 8-9 at a medical symposium on hypertension.

High blood pressure can be successfully lowered with modern drugs and strokes and heart attacks prevented, according to Dr. Morton H. Maxwell, clinical professor of medicine at University of California in Los Angeles.

Patients should receive drug treatment if they give evidence of persistently elevated blood pressure readings or have a family history of hypertensive cardiovascular disease, another participant on the program, Dr. Edward D. Freis said.

Dr. Freis, senior medical investigator, Veteran's Administration Hospital, Washington, D. C., recommended that indications for treatment should be stricter for men than for women because of the more rapid progression of cardiovascular damage in men. (Statistics, however, show that more women than men are diagnosed as being hypertensive.)

A relatively simple and inexpensive work-up can help the physician to determine whether a hypertensive patient should have therapy without delay.

Dr. Walter M. Kirkendall, director of the program in internal medicine, University of Texas Medical School, made this point and explained that a group of symptoms and signs in the patient's history, physical examination and laboratory tests give the physician the information he needs to evaluate the patient.

The symposium was sponsored by the Medical School and Division of Continuging Education of the University of Texas Science Center at Houston and was co-sponsored by CIBA Pharmaceutical Company.

Mrs. Della Walker has 90th birthday

BERNIE— Mrs. Della Walker, who observed her 90th birthday Sunday, was honored by her children with an open house in the fellowship hall of the General Baptist Church.

Attending were 40 of her 72 living descendants, including six children, 12 grandchildren, 19 great-grandchildren and three great- great- grandchildren, and 150 other guests. Also among the descendants present were members of two five- generation families.

Children attending were Ezra Walker of Dumas, Ark., Mrs. Etta Michael of Detroit, Mich., Mrs. Algie Phillips and Mrs. Ruby Glenn of New Madrid and Mrs. Waneata Sanders and Mrs. Letha Burleson of Dexter. A son, Paul Walker of Rochester, N.Y., was unable to attend.

Mrs. Walker was born March 4, 1883, and has lived in the Bernie area since early childhood. She has been a member of the Bernie General Baptist Church, which her father built, since she was a young girl. Her husband John died in May 1944.

Attendance drive planned

MINER — The Miner Baptist Church will have a Sunday School attendance campaign March 24- April 15.

The program will be titled: "Magnify the Cross of Christ," and will strive to reach an overall goal of 250 in Sunday School by Easter Sunday, April 22.

Each Sunday, as the goals are reached in attendance, a large cross will be erected and hopefully completed on April 15 with over 200 in attendance.

Sign- up for the program will begin this Sunday and continue through March 18 in an effort to have over 200 signed up, saying that "unless I'm providentially hindered, I'll be present in Sunday School, March 24- April 15."

Dogwood church plans revival

DOGWOOD — A week of revival services has been set for the Dogwood United Methodist Church, beginning Sunday for both services.

The services will continue each evening at 7:30 until closing on Friday night.

The Rev. Floyd V. Brower, pastor, will deliver the messages. Congregational singing and special numbers will be featured.

Weekend meetings planned

EAST PRAIRIE — First Church of God will have special services tonight through Sunday.

Services tonight and Saturday will begin at 7 p.m. and Sunday night at 6.

The Joy Bells from Limestone, Tenn., will sing Saturday night and Sunday morning with the youth in charge of all singing under the direction of Foster Brock, the church's new minister of youth.

Dr. Ehly to be guest speaker

Dr. Paul E. Ehly of St. Louis will speak Sunday at First Christian Church (Disciples) 1006 N. Main St., at the 10:30 a.m. worship service, according to the Rev. Paul D. Walker, pastor.

Dr. Ehly and Charles B. Barr, district minister for Christian Churches, form the team for the sixth annual Outreach Visitation sponsored by the Christian Church in District 10.

Dr. Ehly is area director of development for the National Benevolent Association of the Christian Church, a position he has held since 1966. The NBA operates homes for children and the aging throughout the United States and serves as the Division of Social and Health Services of the Christian Church Disciples of Christ.

Before coming to his present position, Dr. Ehly was pastor of Raytown Christian Church near Kansas City and held several significant pastorates in Kansas.

He was born in Concordia, Kan., grew up in Enid, Okla., and received bachelor of arts, master of arts and doctor of divinity degrees from Phillips University in Enid. He also attended New College of University of Edinburgh, Scotland, and the School of Religion of University of Tubingen, Germany. In 1963, he was honored by Phillips with the doctor of divinity degree.

St. Joe to mark 100 years

IDALIA— St. Joe General Baptist Church near Idalia has announced plans for a centennial celebration to be held in July.

Information concerning the founding of the church is being compiled now, a church spokesman said, and the committee needs information and pictures of several charter members and former pastors.

The charter members the committee needs histories of include G.W. and Martha Reed, G.W. and Anna Patterson, B. Longworth, John Culberson, William Boone, W.J. McIntosh, Mary McIntosh, Jane Abner, William Taturn, Samuel Wiley, Martha Wiley, Marth Gipson and the church organizer, Joseph Weather.

The former pastors whose biographies are needed include W.A. Ward, D.A. Ford, M.E. Bunnells, G.W. Johnson, John Terry and D.D. Damison.

Anyone who can help the committee to complete its compilation of the church history is asked to send the information or contact Ruth E. Davis, Route Three, Bloomfield.

Mrs. Davis stressed that any pictures used for the history would be handled carefully and returned to the proper owners unharmed.

INTERNATIONAL
SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By Dr. William H. Taft

FOR MARCH 11, 1973

Scripture: Genesis 1:27-30; 4:1-9; Matthew 25:31-46; Acts 17:30-31; Romans 14:10-12

MAN IS A RESPONSIBLE BEING

On this, the first Sunday in Lent, Christians need to pause and re-examine their relationships with God.

Possibly it is time for us to make church membership more meaningful and more difficult to receive. In the early days of Christianity individuals were screened with great care before they were accepted for baptism.

During Lent one should prepare for a renewal of his faith. It is a time for self-examination, a time for discipline, and a time to approach the future in more Christian commitment.

Paul told his followers that Christ offered them a "new nature." As God's followers they were to put on "compassion, kindness, lowliness, meekness and patience, forbearing one another and forgiving each other."

Since the Creation man has been responsible for his own acts. He must be obedient to God. Man, however, has many faults. One of the greatest is his inclination to blame someone else for his own acts.

Still man is something special. He is a highly developed animal, a noble being, a free being who is fundamentally good. In any relationship between God and man two words are significant, freedom and accountability.

With the power of freedom man has the potential for greatness and nobility or the potential for cruelty and evil. Or, as Benjamin Disraeli once remarked, man can choose to be an angel or an ape.

Many responsibilities are faced by all of us today. Recently former President Lyndon Johnson said we should have "unceasing concern for the welfare, dignity, decency, and innate integrity of life for every individual regardless of color, creed, ancestry, sex, or age."

While Johnson was discussing our unequal history, he was elaborating on our responsibilities as human beings created by God.

In the beginning man was provided with all of his needs Yet he failed to follow the simple guidelines given in the Garden of Eden and his responsibilities were expanded.

Man now has to provide more for himself. And he has to provide for his brothers as well if he wants to follow God's teachings. He has the privilege of living on this world; he has responsibilities as well to take care of it.

Some debates are occurring about our need to curb the world population growth in order to save the world. We also see some need to restructure the concept of urban living or our cities will perish. We must take risks in order to save ourselves.

All persons directly or indirectly operate under some code of ethics. The radio and television media have codes as well as the motion picture industry. Even the writers of comic books have a set of principles.

Newspapermen operate under some canons of journalism. While they admit their primary function is to communicate what humans do to other humans, the newsmen accept their responsibility to be sincere, truthful, and accurate.

Doctors and lawyers too have their codes. Like the other professional persons they have specific responsibilities to their clients.

Our life is a stewardship for which we are held accountable by God. Our neighbors hold us responsible for our actions in our neighborhood. And today's memory lesson is from Romans 14:12: "Each of us shall give account of himself to God."

God is a responsible creator. He expects us to be responsible creatures. He has given us many benefits yet He holds us accountable. One day each of us will have to settle our accounts with Him.

Responsiblility can be a lifetime assignment.

The New Direction coming

The New Direction is a unique youth ministry composed of 10 young Christians who tell it all in a presentation that features choreography, lighting, full dimensional sound and a five-screen multi- media background.

The concerts are being sponsored by Trinity Baptist Church, and the doors will open at 6:45 p.m. Tickets are on sale at Coffey's TV and Appliance downtown and at Rye's Jewelers Kingsway Plaza Mall.

Youth have charge of revival

MINER— The youth of Miner Baptist Church will be engaged in a revival effort this weekend, tonight through Sunday, led by a team from Southwest Baptist College at Bolivar.

The youth of the church will be in charge of the services, featuring a choir, special music, ushering and other assignments.

The team from Bolivar includes Steve Shipman, evangelist; Jan Coffey, music director; and Dave Stevens, pianist.

The services will be of interest to adults, as well as young people and children, and a nursery will be provided, according to the Rev. Grady Etheridge, pastor.

Services begin each evening at 7 o'clock and Sunday morning at 10:30.

Elm Street revival set

CHARLESTON— Revival services will begin at Elm Street Baptist Church Sunday and will continue through March 18 at 7:30 each night.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Calvin C. Wilkins, pastor of Briensburg Baptist Church at Benton, Ky., Route Seven.

The singing will be under the direction of Rondal Adams, minister of music for Hayward Baptist Church, Portageville Route Two.

The Rev. Bob Williamson, pastor, will preach at Sunday's services then will be joined by the Rev. Mr. Wilkins on Monday.

Nursery care will be provided nightly for children through three years old.

Area Methodists to hear Missionary

The Rev. Vivian Otto, a United Methodist missionary to Rhodesia for 22 years, who is presently between assignments, will speak at First United Methodist Church on Highway 61 North Sunday night following a congregational dinner in her honor at 6 p.m.

Miss Otto has taught primarily at teacher training schools at Old Umtali, Mutambara and Nyadiri, all in Rhodesia. She also served as headmistress at various schools there. For a short time she was involved in Women's work at Epworth Tehological College near Salisbury, Rhodesia.

Born in Saginaw, Mich., Miss Otto is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and Asbury Theological Seminary. She has also studied at Yale University and Garrett Theological Seminary. She is a member of the Rhodesia Annual Conference, having been ordained in 1953.

Prior to her appearance at First United Methodist Church, Miss Otto will speak at the Church School hour on Sunday morning at the East Prairie United Methodist Church. She will preach at the 10:45 worship service at the Charleston United Methodist Church; and, at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, she will address a missionary rally at the Bertrand church with the Methodist churches from Bertrand, Wyatt, Dogwood, Anniston, Bridges, Morehouse and Wesley in Sikeston involved.

Continuing her schedule in the Poplar Bluff- Sikeston District, Miss Otto will speak for a 9:30 a.m. meeting Monday at the Caruthersville United Methodist Church, followed by a 2 p.m. presentation at First United Methodist Church in Kennett.

She will appear before the New Madrid Rotary Club Monday at 6:15 p.m., before addressing a group meeting at 7:30 at the New Madrid church, including Kewanee, Lilbourn, Marston and Portageville, as well as the New Madrid church.

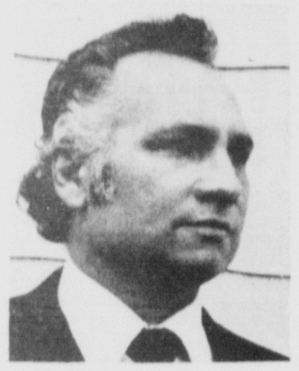
On Tuesday afternoon, Miss Otto will address the two United Methodist churches in Poplar Bluff -- First and Grace, along with Good Hope, Agee and Qulin churches. That evening, she will speak in Doniphan for a combined group of 10 of the smaller churches in that area.

According to Dr. Elbridge Bartley, United Methodist district superintendent, Miss Otto will complete her visit to the district on Wednesday by addressing a prayer breakfast group meeting at the Hickory House restaurant in Dexter at 6:30 a.m. Then, following a 10:30 a.m. meeting at Dexter United Methodist Church, she will speak to the Kiwanis Club of Bloomfield at noon.

Malden United Methodist Church will entertain her at a tea Wednesday afternoon, assisted by the Parma and Bernie United Methodist Churches. That evening, she will speak for representatives of the churches at Williamsville and Ellsinore at the Williamsville church.

Shamburger to preach for Bridges revival

BERTRAND — The Rev. William J. Shamburger, pastor of the Lilbourn and Parma United Methodist Churches, will preach in revival services at Bridges United Methodist Church Wednesday through Sunday, according to the Rev. Mike Smity, pastor.



Rev. William Shamburger

Services will start at 7:30 p.m. during the week and at 11 a.m. Sunday.

Sermon topics for the services are "Old Time Religion", "Who Cares", "Believe God", "Escape From Judgment" and "Born Again and Knowing It".

The Rev. Mr. Shamburger holds a bachelor of arts degree from Ouachita Baptist University, bachelor of divinity degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth and doctor of philosophy degree from Universidad de San Martin de Porras of Lima, Peru, where he also did mission work.

Bridges community is five and a half miles south of Bertrand off Route C in Mississippi County.

Sox troubled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

General Manager Stu Holcomb is getting a red neck over some Chicago White Sox who are holding out for more green.

Holcomb, who placed holdouts Jay Johnstone and Ed Spiezio on waivers Wednesday, threatened Thursday to fine the other three balky Sox—pitcher Stan Bahnsen, infielder Mike Andrews and outfielder Rick Reichardt.

"I don't know of any rule that says I can't fine them if the notion hits me," Holcomb said, "and believe me, it's coming on."

Andrews and Reichardt are balking at pay cuts which would drop them below $50,000. Bahnsen, a 21-game winner in 1972, reportedly has been offered $60,000-65,000 but is seeking more.

However, several other salary wars came to an end.

Minnesota slugger Harmon Killebrew accepted a reported $5,000 pay slash to $110,000 but Calvin Griffith, president of the Twins, said Killebrew could increase his earnings with "contingency" clauses.

The contingencies reportedly include a rebound in attendance to more than 1.1 million and a certain number of appearances by the 36-year-old Killebrew, who ranks fourth on baseball's all-time home run list with 541.

The Twins drew only 797,101 spectators last season and Killebrew played in 139 games despite a painful foot injury which necessitated postseason surgery.

The New York Yankees got outfielder Roy White's signature for an estimated $70,000 and relief ace Mike Marshall received a substantial hike from the Montreal Expos after a season in which he won 14 games and posted a 1.78 earned run average.

Elsewhere, the Kansas City Royals signed outfielder Amos Otis and pitcher Tom Burgmeier while catcher Paul Casanova came to terms with the Atlanta Braves.

In exhibition action, the New York Mets edged the Detroit Tigers 4-3 on Don Hahn's 10thinning single; the Boston Red Sox jumped on rookie Mike Pazik for six runs, including Carlton Fisk's two-run homer, in the first inning and trounced the New York Yankees 7-2 and the Pittsburgh Pirates rallied for two runs in the bottom of the ninth to beat Minnesota 7-6 after the Twins scored four times in the top of the frame.

Spinks adds to Cardinals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — What's a Scipio Spinks?

It's a grown man who sleeps with a stuffed gorilla. And, it's a loveable clown whose shenanigans keep the St. Louis Cardinals laughing.

But, most of all, a Scipio Spinks is a fast-balling righthanded pitcher for the National League baseball team, a man with the talent to possibly replace aging superstar Bob Gibson as the ace of the Cards' staff.

"During my six years in the Houston Astros' chain, most of the managers thought of me as some kind of wise-guy hot dog who wasn't serious enough to be a winning pitcher in the major leagues," Spinks said.

"Now that I'm with the Cardinals, where people have a sense of humor, I'm regarded as both a big league pitcher and a guy who can keep the team loose with humor."

Lettered on his jersey was "Brock."

"Sign this, Mr. Brock," asked one fan.

"Don't bother me, son," said the No. 20 Cardinal.

"I'm a busy man. But, since you came out here to see the best baserunner in the world I'll sign it for you."

Had Lou Brock, the nice guy superstar of the Cards, suddenly gone sour? Not really. It wasn't Brock in that uniform at all. It was an imposter in a stolen uniform...it was Scipio Spinks.

"Big-name stars are the easiest to kid with," Spinks said Thursday. "Brock, Gibson, Joe Torre—people of that caliber—take it, then they dish it back. It keeps everybody smiling."

Spinks had the Cards thinking of a pennant last summer. St. Louis was on a 22-6 streak and close to Pittsburgh in the NL East.

Then, in a collision with Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench, Spinks messed up his knee. He was finished with a 5-5 record and 2.67 earned run average.

St. Louis was finished, too. The Cardinals went 37-47 the rest of the season and the Pirates walked away with the race. It's not surprising that Manager Red Scoendienst says, "I'm delighted to have Spinks back, for more reasons than one." Spinks' wife, Areda, and their 7-month-old daughter, Terri Lynn, are home in Oklahoma City while Scipio is in training. But, he does have a roommate here.

It's Mighty Joe Young, the stuffed gorilla.

Spinks talks to this make-believe animal. He claims Joe talks back. It's all a part of Spinks' blithe spirit, and Cardinal teammates also kid the pet ape when firing barbs at Scipio.

"They can pick on me, but they'd better lay off Mighty Joe Young," Spinks said, faking seriousness. "Joe likes to watch TV. We enjoy the same shows. My wife enjoys the idea of me rooming with Joe. She figures it keeps me out of trouble."

NCAA playoffs begin Saturday

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Houston and controversial Southwestern Louisiana, two nationally ranked basketball powers, collide Saturday in the first round of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Midwest playoffs.

The game, first of two, begins at 3:10 p. m. CST. It will be followed by a battle of two unranked clubs, Texas Tech and South Carolina.

Houston, ranked No. 7 defeated 14th-ranked Southwestern Louisiana, involved in court action resulting from 125 charges brought against the school by the NCAA, in an earlier meeting at Houston 82-80.

Dwight Lamar, Southwestern's big scorer with a 29.7-point average, saw only limited action in the first game and scored 18 points. He's ready for fulltime duty in this one.

Asked how Houston guarded Lamar, Coach Guy Lewis replied:

"I don't think we did. His shooting zone is one step over the middle line. I think he's the finest guard in college basketball."

"They beat us on the boards pretty good," says Southwestern Coach Beryl Shipley, "and having Lamar fulltime won't change that unless the ball goes in.

"We know Houston is real tough. They're awfully big, strong and physical. We'd rather play them in Wichita than Houston. I feel we can beat Houston if he have a good game. If we don't, we'll be going home quick. We're down to a one-game season."

Assistant Coach George Davidson of Texas Tech, who has scouted South Carolina, says the Gamecocks are "traditionally a power. They have exceptionally fine talent.

"Everyone is aware of Kevin Joyce's credentials. As far as counting the Red Raiders out, no. It's going to be a tough game but sizewise, we can match up pretty well.

200-plus bowlers

Wayne Baker, manager of Imperial Lanes, congratulates Brenda Tyrone and Anice Baker in their bowling feats. Brenda bowled a 257 game and had a 620 series while Anice shot a 253 game and scored a 681 series during recent league play.

Sports Corner

by Ron Jaynes

It's official! Sikeston will resume junior high athletics next season.

Senior high principal, Roger Sherman, told the Daily Standards sports department early this week that the sports of football, basketball, wrestling and track will be initiated at the eighth grade level, beginning with the 1973- 74 school year.

The junior high athletic program at Sikeston was discontinued five years ago and since then SHS has fallen to the wayside in competition with area schools.

Bulldog coaches, who have turned in surprising records under the handicap, has been the center of blame since then, but the real blame should have been tagged on the group that dropped the program.

Beware of the Bulldogs...their pups will get the training they've desperately needed...and the SHS athletic program will return to prominence!!!!!

The Sikeston fast pitch softball association will conduct a meeting Sunday at the First National Bank community room, starting at 2:30.

Rufus Lavender, league president, noted that the league is seeking additional teams and anyone wishing to enter a squad should be present at the meeting.

Farmington high school has openings for three teams in their basketball tournament next year. The dates are: Nov. 26, 27, 29 and 30. Any interested teams may contact Jim Dinwiddie, Athletic Director at the high school.

Area high school golf, track, tennis and baseball coaches are urged to mail the Daily Standard sports department copies of its 1973 spring sports schedule.

Southeast Missouri may well produce a high school state baseball champion this season. The sport has been divided into two divisions, which will separate the larger schools and the smaller ones. It should be an interesting season.

To Ron Jaynes & his Sports Staff

We fans, students, and ballplayers do not!!! appreciate the way you all support our Kelly Hawks ball team. We think we have the best ball club in the state of Missouri. We are very proud of Kelly and do not!!!!like the way you run us down in your paper. If we haven't proved to you and your sports staff yet we are a very good!!!!ballclub I would like to know what we have to do, beat the Los Angeles Lakers.

Next year I hope you will be a little more respectful to us at Kelly.

Waters, Matthews to serve as S.H.S. student body heads

Charlie Waters and Drew Matthews were selected Tuesday by Sikeston high school voters to serve as 1973-74 student body president and vice president.

Waters is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Waters, 109 Salcedo Road, and is presently employed by J. C. Penney and Company. He is currently a member of biology club, honor society, band, and student council.

Matthews, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Matthews, 710 Hickory, is employed as bookkeeper at the Sikeston Aluminum Company. The junior is president of his class this year, a member of both biology and math club and also serves as junior photographer to the Bulldog Barker newspaper staff. He is also a third - year letterman in track, where his main event is the high hurdles.

Actual balloting by the students during their lunch periods Tuesday capped the preceding week's activities of intensified campaigning and sign-painting.

That morning the student body assembled in the fieldhouse to hear speeches by the four candidates for president and vice president, Waters, Matthews, John Hoffman, and Ronald Marks, and to view entertainment and skits presented on behalf of each candidate.

The first action by the new student body officers will be to attend the Missouri Association of Student Councils convention in Joplin, March 16-18. They will be accompanied by this year's president and vice president, Pat Lancaster and Mark Shaw, and student council sponsor, Mrs. Harlice Coates.

PETUNIAS DETECT

NEW YORK (AP) — Fish and petunias may come to rival canaries as pollution detectors.

Nearly everyone knows that canaries have been used to give early warning signals of foul air in mines. Now various plants, including petunias, are being tested in government laboratories at Beltsville, Md., for clues to various air-borne pollutants. And Science News reports that fish responses may provide instantaneous gauges of water pollutants.

Equipment company gets contract for new fire truck

BLOOMFIELD— The Ozark Fire Extinguishing and Equipment Co. of Springfield Thursday night was awarded the contract to supply Bloomfield a new fire truck.

The firm submitted a low bid of $12,805, excluding the cost of the chassis and hose. Ozark will loan the city a used fire truck until the new one arrives.

Towers Fire Apparatus Equipment Co. of Freeburg, Ill., submitted a bid of $14,319.

The council agreed to use the old fire truck for rural calls at no cost to the city after the new truck arrives. The council decided to purchase revolving red lights, two smoke masks and some additional hoses for the present fire truck.

The council ordered a city dog pound built in accordance with humane society regulations and passed an ordinance requiring all dog owners to innoculate their dogs and purchase dog tags.

The council agreed to increase the mayor's monthly expense account, effective after April 3. The allowance was raised from $25 to $100 per month.

Q—What are the primary colors?

A—Red, yellow, blue.

Bernie gets new fire truck

BERNIE — Mrs. Geneva Pyle, city clerk, reported today that the city received a new fire truck at noon Tuesday.

The new truck will be stationed in the new fire station south of the city hall. Total cost of the truck and equipment is $21,319.98.

The truck, purchased from Ozark Fire Extinguishing and Equipment Co. of Springfield, was ordered early last summer.

East Prairie budget accepted

EAST PRAIRIE-- The city budget, as submitted by City Manager Gene Cullen was reviewed and accepted Thursday night by the City Council.

Estimated revenue for the year from April 1 to March 31, 1974, totals $278,200. Estimated expenditures are $275,450.

Specifications for a new fire truck were reviewed and the council authorized Cullen to accept bids.

The council approved the issuing of a $150 check to the law enforcement council crime laboratory in Cape Girardeau. The laboratory has been used to help Mississippi County law enforcement officers, and the county has been asked for $500 to help pay for the services.

The County Court has given $200 and Charleston $150.

A letter of intent is being forwarded to the Federal Insurance Administration for the purpose of qualifying the city for federal flood insurance. If requirements are met, citizens who desire flood insurance will be able to purchase it from local agents.

Carey Johnson, chairman of the planning and zoning commission, was present and a discussion was held on the commission's recommendation for subdivision regulations and zoning ordinances.

A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. March 19 in the high school library before the recommended ordinances are adopted.

In routine action the council approved a collector's report of $16,461.70 for February payment of expenditures of $2,475.46 and the police judge's report, which showed $734 assessed in fines for the month with $614 collected. The difference was worked out.

Judgment awarded

NEW MADRID — Barbara Ann Leslie was awarded $335 judgment for damages against Charles Louis Adams in a jury trial Thursday in Circuit Court.

Judge Marshall Craig of Charleston presided in the case which had been transferred from Pemsicot County on a change of venue.

Taxes total $19,878.83

BENTON — Scott County Collector Tom Marshall reports $19,878.83 in tax collections during February.

Personal property, real estate and merchant's tax collections were included.

The funds will be distributed as follows:

State, $122.19; county, $2,015.69; county special roads, $1,124.83; health, $407.21; library, $190.31; Johnson grass, $81.64; and county drainage districts $551.13.

Among county schools, Illmo- Scott City R-1 will receive $2,479.43; Chaffee R-2, $1,563.25; Oran R-3, $944.35; Kelly R-4, $1,992.22; Scott Central R-5, $1,318.73; Sikeston R-6, $7,284.12; and Kelso - New Hamburg, C-7, $243.73.

According to Marshall, all taxes collected are delinquent and bear a two per cent penalty and three per cent interest if paid in the month of March.

Delinquent back tax books are now being prepared. Taxpayers are reminded that real estate taxes not paid for the year 1970 will be subject to tax sale in August.

Hearing set for March 15

BLOOMFIELD — James Robert Gadis, 17, of Matthews had his preliminary hearing set for March 15 in Magistrate Court Thursday before Judge Koss W. Blomeyer.

Gadis is charged with parole violation from New Madrid County, two counts of tampering with a motor vehicle and felonious escape from the Stoddard County Jail. Gadis and four other subjects made their escape on Feb. 23 at approximately 10:20 p.m. by prying away a bar and climbing through a window on the south side of the jail. All five were recaptured that same night at Dexter.

Elmer Eugene Green of Dexter, charged with driving while intoxicated, a third offense, had his preliminary hearing set for March 15. Green is presently serving a 60 day jail sentence for driving while his licenses were revoked.

James T. Cato of Zalma pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while intoxicated. His driver's license was suspended and he was fined $100 and court costs.

James Earl Young of Parma pleaded guilty to charges of careless and imprudent driving and no operators license. His fine was set at $15 and court costs.

Charles E. Houart of Bloomfield pleaded guilty to charges of failing to register his motor vehicle and having no license plates on his car. He was fined $10 and court costs.

Wesley E. Dunivan of Advance paid a fine of $10 and costs, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of having expired vehicle plates.

John Earl Joiner of Blytheville, Ark. pleaded guilty to a charge of having no operator's license. He paid a fine of $5 and court costs.

Roger Dale Gromer of Bloomfield was fined $10 and court costs after pleading guilty to a charge of having no vehicle license.

Claude W. Toombs of Parma pleaded guilty to a charge of careless and imprudent driving. Toombs was fined $10 and court costs.

William Eugene Bennett of Bloomfield pleaded not guilty to the charge of speeding and his trial by court was set for March 22.

Georgia Ruth Richardson pleaded guilty to charges of having no vehicle or operator's license. Her fine was set at $10 and court costs.

Those pleading guilty to charges of speeding paid fines and court costs. They were: Robert L. Libla Jr., $12; Wayne A. Redfern, $21; David G. Ventling, $20; Jerrell Keith Harg, $24; Peggy Darlene McCoy, $15; Michael E. Harris, $13 and Eva Dennis, $21.

Trio sentenced

Three men were sentenced to jail Thursday night in City Court on charges of driving while intoxicated. Fines of $110 also were levied against each man.

Sentenced were Paul C. Johnson of Charleston, Harry G. Menken Sr., 818 Wayne, and John Lon Cray, 324 Selma. Menken's jail time was suspended, on condition of one year good behavior. Twenty-five of Cray's 30 days were suspended on good behavior.

Three other men were fined $110 for driving while intoxicated. They were Noah A. Strickland of Bertrand Route One; James O. Poor of East Prairie; and Jewell M. Michael of Benton. Another man, Danny Joe Byrd of Route Two, forfeited bond of $110.

Court appearances for Thomas Lee Brasenell, 320 Missouri and Jimmie Dale Ray, 1618 Matthews, were reset for March 21. Brasenell is charged with discharging a firearm in the city and displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon. Ray is charged with displaying a dangerous and deadly weapon.

Charges stem from an incident Saturday night at Russell's Bull Dog Inn on East Malone where Ray and Brasenell allegedly threatened to kill two men. Brasenell allegedly fired a 16 gauge shotgun into the air during the incident.

Four persons were fined for allowing their dogs to run loose. Fred Thorton, 8 Beaird Drive, was fined $15; Henry Powell, 109 Taylor, $15; Michael Tournier, 815 Ruth, $19; and Dora Vogel, 309 Circle Drive, $15.

Other arrests included Jimmy Lee Sloan, Route Two, assault and battery, forfeited bond of $60; Kathy Lynn Ditto, 202 Center, speeding, $55; Susan Kay Howell, 233 Broadway, careless and imprudent driving, dismissed.

Floyd Champion, 108 Petty, public intoxication, $19, resisting arrest, $20; Floyd Ercell Davis of East Prairie, public intoxication, forfeited bond of $19; Lillie Mae Gray, 108 Petty, public intoxication, $19, resisting arrest, $35; Jerry W. Darter, 217 Marian, careless and imprudent driving, dismissed.

Grover C. Lindsey, 203 Broadway, public intoxication, dismissed; Bernice Elenore Cummins, careless and imprudent driving, dismissed; Leo McCormick, Box 521, disorderly conduct, forfeited bond of $35; Thomas I. Reddick of New Madrid, public intoxication, $19.

Albert Applewhite, 333 Luther, trespassing, $11; Danny Joe Byrd, Route two, careless and imprudent driving, forfeited bond of $29; Melvin Pepper of St. Louis, public intoxication, $19; and Jerry Lynn Ratledge of Route Four, careless and imprudent driving, $29.

Workshop plans in last stages

MALDEN — Plans for the establishment of sheltered workshops in Malden and Kennett are nearing final stages, according to Charles Royal of Malden, president of the board of Cotton Boll Sheltered Workshop, Inc.

Royal announced that all preliminary work has been completed and now it is a matter of compiling the documents from Kennett and Malden and forwarding them.

The workshops will provide employment for the handicapped that has never before been available in the immediate areas. Not only will the handicapped benefit, but also all industries that work with the workshop will receive benefits.

Positions are open for director, supervisor and secretary. Interested persons should send resumes to Charles Royal, First National Bank, Malden, or the Rev. Paul Harlan, First Presbyterian Church in Kennett.

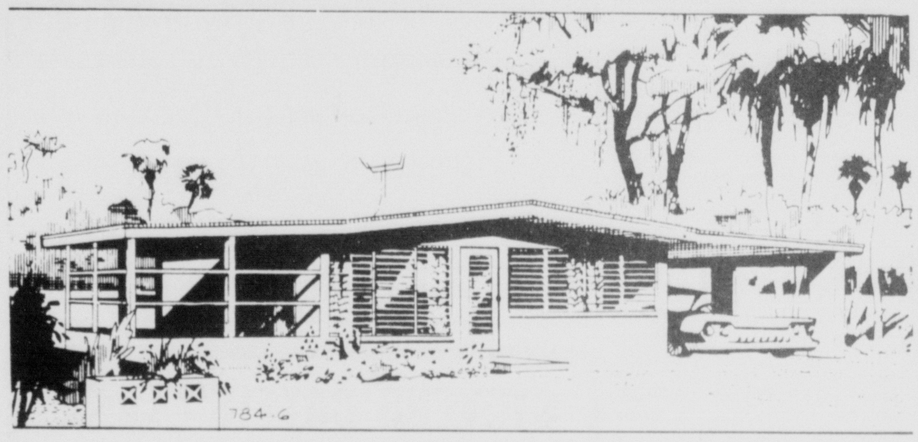
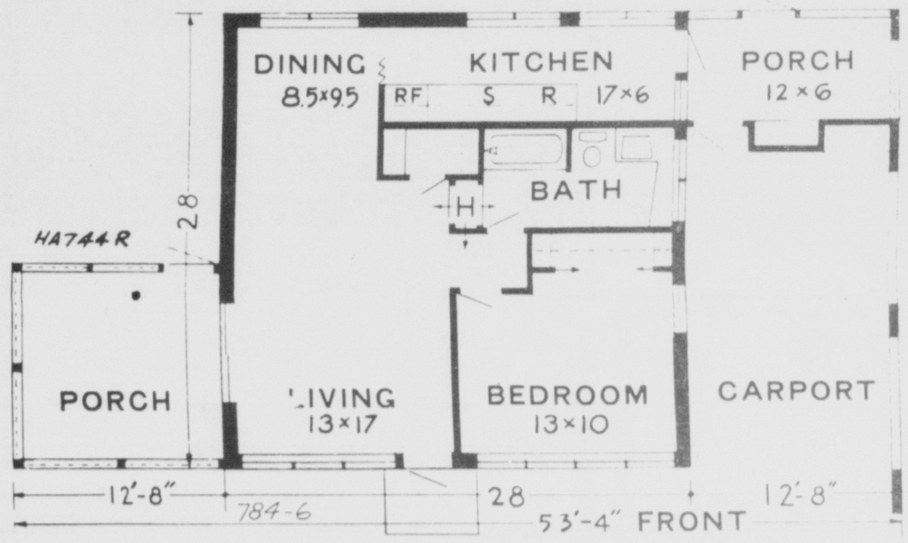
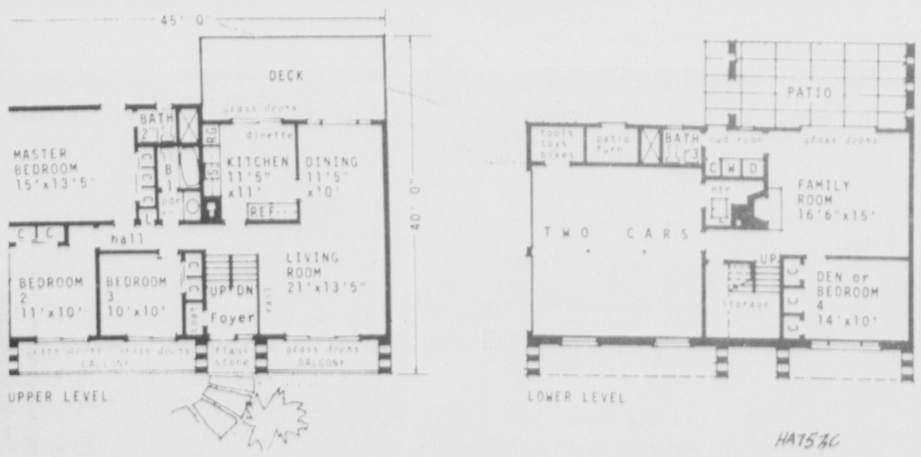
HOMES FOR AMERICANS





THE GENTLY SLOPING saddle roof of Plan HA744R makes the house look much larger than it really is. The 12 by 12 screen porch extends the living room, via a sliding glass door. The dining area is handy to the kitchen. And the kitchen has a breakfast nook, as well as a door to a back porch, also suitable for outdoor eating. There are 784 square feet in this home, designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd St. North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS



THE BI-LEVEL is the answer to a lot of living on a small lot with a slope. This house shows a double-height entry flanked by railed balconies. On the lower level there's a bedroom, bath, family room, utility-laundry, garage and storage. The main level has three more bedrooms, two baths and lots of closet space. The rear deck is a summer entertaining area. Plan HA753C was designed by architect Lester Cohen, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036. Anyone wishing to know the price of the blueprint can write to Cohen. Upper level area is 1,145 square feet.

Economy will get worse before better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the sharp rise in food and fuel prices in the latest wholesale-price report, the White House is sticking to its economic policies and urging the American people to be patient.

The situation will get worse before it gets better for the consumer, the Nixon administration says. Or, as one official of the Cost of Living Council put it: "It's going to be tough the next few months, really tough."

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz has been saying in recent days that despite big increases, retail food prices will be no higher at the end of the year than they were at the beginning.

In his recent economic State of the Union message tt Congress, President Nixon said food prices would continue their sharp upward trend for the first half of the year. But he said his action to increase supplies would have a powerful impact on prices in the second half.

This means the administration expects many food prices—but probably not meat prices—to decline sharply after July 1 because of its emphasis on increasing supplies by changing government agricultural policy. Meat prices probably will continue at a high level.

Meanwhile, the Senate Banking Committee voted Thursday to give Nixon standby authority to ration petroleum products, including gasoline, as part of a bill extending his wage-price control authority.

The bill also directs the administration to report every three months on steps taken to hold down food prices.

The administration has rejected a freeze on food prices and direct controls on farm products despite the latest increase in food prices. It contends controls would only make the situation worse and lead to black marketing and rationing.

The Cost of Living Council, in what was called a consumer protection move, earlier in the week reimposed price controls in the oil industry. The February Wholesale Price Index released Thursday showed that the price of petroleum and other fuels was one of the main reasons for non food price increases.

The cease-fire agreement was reached shortly before a government deadline that would have allowed all the invaders of Wounded Knee to depart unarmed without threat of immediate arrest.

A clergyman in the village during the firing, the Rev. Wesley Hunter, said he and AIM leaders were discussing a three- point peace plan, which included the cease-fire.

Gas-rationing authority is included in recommendation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gasoline-rationing authority for President Nixon is included in a Senate committee's recommendation for a one-year extension of his powers to control wages and prices.

The President would be directed, under the bill approved Thursday by the Senate Banking Committee, to report every three months on what steps he has taken to hold down food prices.

The approval came after the Bureau of Labor Statistics, in its monthly report, said wholesale prices for farm products and processed foods increased in the last three months at a seasonally adjusted rate of 56 per cent.

Petroleum products cost 12.5 per cent more than a year ago.

The committee defeated on tie votes amendments to make Phase 3 tougher by imposing rent controls in metropolitan areas and to return to the kind of wage-price control system, known as Phase 2, that Nixon abandoned Jan. 11.

Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Harrison Williams, D-N.J, promised a floor fight on this when the bill is before the full Senate.

Sen. Thomas McIntyre, D-N.H., originally had offered an amendment in collaboration with Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo., to give the president authority to allocate and ration any scarce commodities.

But several senators said the authority was too broad

McIntyre changed it to read "petroleum products," which have been in short supply, especially in New England.

"This is standby power," McIntyre said. "I'd rather have the President do this than Mobil, Shell, Exxon, etc."

Mandatory controls over petroleum products were reimposed by the Cost of Living Council Tuesday. Petroleum price hikes were listed as 5.7 percent last month in the Wholesale Price Index.

The committee also approved requiring corporations to publicly disclose the arithmetic behind the price hikes they seek from the Cost of Living Council, which now keeps the information confidential. The intent is that publicity will help hold down prices.

The committee also raised the wage-exemption guidelines from $2.75 an hour to $3.50. Those earning below that would not be subject to the 5.5-percent-a-year guideline.

More people at work in February

WASHINGTON (AP) — The total number of Americans at work rose sharply in February, indicating an expanding economy, while the unemployment rate edged up slightly, the Labor Department reported today.

Total employment rose nearly 800,000 to 81.8 million, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The total number of unemployed workers rose 170,000 to 4.8 million for a seasonally adjusted rate of 5.1 per cent of the work force. This was up from 5 per cent in January, the report said.

The report noted a substantial gain in the length of the average work week of 24 minutes to 37.3 hours for nonfarm payrolls.

The longer work week also helped boost average earnings of some 50 million rank and file workers by $150 to $139.48 per week.

The bureau said average weekly earnings were up $8.47, or 6.5 per cent, per week over the past year. Over the same time span living costs rose 3.7 per cent.

On a seasonal basis, an adjustment for normal developments, both the rise in employment and unemployment were smaller. The bureau figured the total increase in jobs at 570,000 and the total rise in unemployed at about 75,000 on the seasonal basis. The report called the unemployment situation virtually unchanged from January.

Nearly two- thirds of the increase in jobs was among women, the report said.

The nation's total employment has increased by 2.5 million in the past year, it said, while total unemployment has declined by nearly 600,000.

The big boost in jobs for women reduced their unemployment rate from 5.3 per cent to 4.9 per cent in February with a total of 1,577,000.

The unemployment rate for men edged up slightly from 3.3 per cent to 3.4 per cent with a total of 2,067,000.

The jobless rate for teenagers climbed from 14.3 per cent to 15.8 per cent with a total of 1,200,000.

Motion denied

BENTON— A motion to suppress evidence by the defense attorney in the case against Joyce Jones of Sikeston was denied in Circuit Court Thursday by Judge Marshall Craig.

Mrs. Jones allegedly attempted to kill her husband on Nov. 8 with a .22 caliber pistol while they were sitting in his car at the corner of South West Street and West Malone Avenue.

Mrs. Jones reportedly fired several shots at her husband, but hit him only in the leg. The two then struggled for control of the gun and she was shot in the hand. Trial was set for March 20.

James O. Conyers was sentenced to three years in custody of State Department of Correction on the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney, Jim Moore.

Conyers applied for probation but was denied. He was charged with writing a $100 bad check to Oklahoma Tire and Supply Co. of Sikeston on Feb. 14, 1970.

Recommendations are approved by R-1 school board

CHARLESTON — The R-1 School District board of education Thursday night approved two recommendations from the Community Teachers Association Welfare Committee.

Approved were a sick leave-business leave policy and a base pay salary schedule. The committee had requested that teachers be allowed two of the nine days allotted for sick leave for business purposes if needed, subject to board approval.

The board also approved the base salary of $6,800. Base salary for teachers had previously been $6,400.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. April 4 to certify election results and elect officers for the coming year.

Compare this chart with other savings plans . .

FIRST NATIONAL BANK	RATE	MINIMUM DEPOSIT	MATURITY
"Regular Passbook"	4½%	None	Daily Interest Compounded Quarterly
"Golden Passbook"	5%	$500	A Full Calendar Quarter
Savings Certificates of Deposit	4½%	$500	30 to 90 days
	5%	$500	90 days to 1 year
	5½%	$500	1 year to 2 years
	5¾%	$500	2 years plus

In plain numbers, shows the rate of interest we pay on savings at First National Bank and we still pay it. Take another look and compare it to what you can get. Then you decide. We pay as high as 5¾%-and you only need $500 to get it. Along with our savings program we offer you every type of banking service there is. And there is an advantage to saving where you do your checking and other banking, besides the convenience. When it's time for a loan, you're an established depositor at First National, and you'll get your loan more readily.
